LONDON NOTES

Dukedom For Prince George?

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 19. Prince George's engagement has revived speculation as to his being made a Royal Duke, writes a correspondent.

The Duke of York was given his present title when he was 24. Prince Henry became Duke of Gloucester at the age of 28.

Reports in the spring of 1924 that the King's third son would receive a dukedom on his 30th birthday in the following December met with an authoritative denial.

Various titles have been suggested for the Prince, among them Edinburgh, Cumberland, and Kent. The first of these is, I should say, the most generally popular.

SECOND COUSINS

As my genealogical table shows, Prince George and Princess Marina are second cousins. Queen Alexandra was the Princess's great-aunt and King George I. of Greece was the Prince's great-uncle.

Besides being Queen Alexandra's favourite brother, King George has much influence with King Edward, who rightly valued his great knowledge of European, and specially of Balkan, politics.

The meetings between them, whether in London, Copenhagen or Greece, were frequent. Whenever possible etiquette was forgotten, or, in Sir George Arthur's words, "it enforced, apt to be suggestive of opera comique."

Sir George tells of the astonishment of a visitor at the Palace in Athens when he saw King George propelling something along a garden path, with Queen Alexandra (then Princess of Wales) in pursuit.

She was protesting that he was spoiling her new hat and the King was replying that such an ugly hat deserved kicking.

PRINCESS MARINA, EDITOR

Princess Marina of Greece has a special association with The Daily Telegraph. She once acted as its editor.

One night, accompanied by a lady-in-attendance, she paid a visit to the office.

Dressed in a short frock, she might have been taken for a typical and vivacious English schoolgirl of, perhaps, 14. Mr. Walter Bell, had the privilege of showing the Princess the working of a big newspaper office.

He tells me that she made an early quest for the Editor's chair. Sir John Le Sage, then Editor of the paper, was away, but his tall armchair at the head of a long table was pointed out.

The schoolgirl Princess climbed into it.

SIR JOHN SIMON'S RETURN

Sir John Simon was to have stayed at North Berwick to the end of the month. He is leaving there to-day and spending the night in his West Riding constituency. To-morrow he is motoring

Survivors Return To Germany

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, September 19, 4.30 p.m.)

Munich, Sept. 18.

The survivors of the ill-fated German Himalaya expedition, Hans Aschenbrenner, Schneider, Bechtold, Finsterwalder, Hieronymus Muehlritter, Bernar Raechl and Dr. Misch arrived here on Tuesday afternoon from India. At their special request there were no formal receptions. The members of the expedition who, owing to forced circumstances had abandoned the attempt to scale Nangaparbat interviewed by the "Voelkischer Beobachter" were loud in their praise of the British authorities most cordial and generous support and of the help and sympathy generously extended to them by the English residents in India. They were also loud in their praise of the Indian porters' heroism, especially that of Merkl's faithful servant porter, Gaylay, who refused to save himself and leave Merkl in the lurch with whom he died "This heroism on the part of a humble Indian has stirred us no less than that of our dead comrades."

All of them declared that if ever an occasion presents itself they all of them would continue the task begun and would dare to attempt to do again the feat which they had just failed.

A number of matters have been accumulating during his absence which will require his immediate attention amongst them the instructions to the British Delegation to Geneva.

But Sir John expects to go back again to Scotland on Saturday or Sunday for a few days more before going himself to Geneva about the 5th to attend the meeting of the Council, which opens formally on the 7th. The other two full delegates are Mr. Eden and Mr. Skelton. Mr. Eden will represent Great Britain at the Council if Sir John Simon is not there before the opening day.

"THE WORLD'S BEST"FROM ALL LEADING COMPRADORE STORES AND
LANE, CRAWFORD, LTD.OLD WORLD FAIRTo Be Staged In Penang

Penang Sept. 13.
Penang is being promised a Grand Fair and Entertainment, the like of which has never been seen here before, on Saturday, Oct. 6, at the race course.

The Fair, which is in aid of St. George's Church funds, under the Distinguished Patronage of His Excellency the General Officer Commanding the Troops and of the Hon. the Resident Councillor and Mrs. Goodman.

The Rev. Keppel Garnier, assisted by several committees, is organizing the Fair and from a glimpse of the preliminary plans, it is evident that a rare treat is in store for the residents of this town.

This is literally true, for in addition to the ten various stalls and side-shows, there will be the "Pig and Whistle" where liquid refreshment can be had with no restrictions whatever; the "Slip Inn," which provides suppers and "Snacks" and "Ye Bun Shoppe" where-in the youngsters can regale themselves with teas and tics.

The Fair is scheduled to open at 4.30 p.m. when the children and their parents could visit the various stalls and enjoy the side-shows, but the real "fun of the fair" is not expected to wax strong till about 7 p.m. and then from 9 to 12 p.m. there will be "Dancing on the Village Green."

The stalls will be situated in the Grand Stand building opposite the big windows where the public are in the habit of paying out and it should, therefore, be not difficult to extract their cash from them. The dancing will be on the lawn and it is expected that more than one band will be in attendance.

UPTON SINCLAIRDisturbs Mr.
Roosevelt

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.
Mr. Roosevelt and leading members of the Democratic party are seriously disturbed at the smashing victory scored by Mr. Upton Sinclair, the novelist, in the preliminary voting for the Governorship of California.

To Mr. Sinclair's request for an interview, Mr. Roosevelt has replied that he would be glad to see him provided the candidature for the Governorship is not discussed.

Democratic leaders feel that even if Mr. Sinclair is not successful, his radical programme may be extremely damaging to the prestige of the Democratic party, and may cause many who would normally support them to turn to the Republican party in the Congress elections in November.

Recalling Mr. Sinclair's long connection with Socialism, the Republicans had his election as a Democratic candidate as a "can opportunity" for people who have believed that Mr. Roosevelt's Administration was Democratic to see their mistake.

Mr. Sinclair, in a broadcast last night, said that Capitalism has broken down. Germany, he said, was in the power of an "obscene demagogue and gangsters," while Italy was "riveted into the chains of slavery by Signor Mussolini."

While enemies called him Communist, he said the principal points of his plan were already being applied by Mr. Roosevelt's Government under the New Deal.

SIR E. DAVIDFirst To Reach South
Magnetic Pole

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.
Sir Edgeworth David, the famous Australian explorer and scientist, and the first man to reach the South Magnetic Pole, died at Sydney, Australia, yesterday, aged 76. He was born in Wales.

Sir Edgeworth was scientific officer with the Shackleton Expedition in 1907-9.

During the war he was given the task of recruiting and training the Australian Mining Corps, but in 1915, although 57 years of age, he went to France on active service as a sapper. He rose rapidly to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel, becoming geologist to the British Armies on the Western Front.

Testing Darwin's Theory
His first important work in Australia was the survey of coal-bearing strata in the Lower Hunter Region. He discovered the famous Grete Coal Seam. In recognition of his ability he was given the Chair of Geology at the University of Sydney in 1901.

In 1906 the British Royal Society sent an expedition to Funafuti to test Darwin's theory of the origin of coral atolls. The expedition failed, but Professor David took a second expedition in 1907 and succeeded in establishing the truth of Darwin's theory.

He joined the Shackleton Expedition to the South Pole in 1908, and discovered the South Magnetic Pole at the age of 59, and was a member of the first party to climb Mount Erebus in the Antarctic.

He finished his war career as chief geologist for the whole of the British Forces attached to Field-Marshal Sir Douglas Haig's headquarters, and in 1920 he was knighted for his services.

DR. H. GERLICHInventor Of 'Winged'
Bullet

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.
News has been received from Copenhagen of the death of Dr. H. Gerlich, who came into prominence three years ago as the inventor of the Helger-Ultra or "winged" bullet. He had been in Denmark since the end of last year, engaged with an armament factory there in experimenting with and perfecting his invention.

With bullets of ordinary design, the limit of useful velocity is about 2,900 ft. per second. Anything beyond this results in excessive erosion of the barrel. By the addition of two circular rings or fins of soft metal, Dr. Gerlich claimed to have made possible a velocity of 5,000 ft. per second or over with ordinary rifle fire.

Dr. Gerlich also claimed that his system could be applied to field artillery and naval guns.

It was freely suggested at first that a high velocity bullet meant the death knell of the tank, a suggestion (writes our Military Correspondent) naturally welcome to the many soldiers who were still inclined to regard the armoured fighting vehicle as a regrettable novelty.

Small arms experts, however, took a cautious view, and, as far as one can gather, fuller investigation has tended to confirm this in regard to the technical problems still to be overcome.

Contrary to much that is said, anti-tank research seems, from a practical point of view, to have fallen behind tank development in recent years, instead of outstripping it. Our army has produced very greatly improved types of fighting machines, but is still searching for the effective and reliable anti-tank machine-gun that can be easily handled and moved.

Dr. Gerlich was of German nationality, and was formerly an engineer at Kiel.

THE EMPIRE'S RETURN TO PROSPERITYSouth Africa To Pay Off
War Debt

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.
Striking evidence of the economic recovery of the British Dominions was provided in two announcements yesterday:

South Africa is to pay off the balance of her war debt to Britain—amounting to nearly £8,000,000—at the end of this month; and

New Zealand anticipates the first Budget surplus for years. Wages and pensions are being increased, and the special unemployment tax is being reduced.

In addition it is understood that:

Australia, in spite of expanding imports, has increased her visible export surplus—largely as a result of the rise in the price of wool—from £26,832,000 to £38,669,000; and

Canada has advanced further than the United States towards industrial recovery in the past twelve months.

South Africa's gesture in repaying the whole of her war debt to this country is the more praiseworthy by reason of the fact that it is spontaneous and not legally necessary. When all inter-Allied payments were suspended as a result of the Hoover Moratorium in 1931, Britain offered to suspend further War Debt payments due from the Dominions.

South Africa was the only Dominion which did not take advantage of the offer.

Even had this offer never been made, South Africa need not have repaid the loan until 1945.

PURCHASING POWER INCREASED

South Africa's decision is welcome evidence, not merely of the high integrity of the Union Government, but also of the renewed prosperity which has come to South Africa, largely as a result of the premium established on gold.

Gold is the principal product of the Union, and the taxes derived from the mining companies are its chief source of revenue. Since many leading countries, including Britain and South Africa, left the Gold Standard the value of gold has advanced from 85s to 138s. an ounce. At the old valuation the Union's gold production last year was worth nearly £47,000,000. At today's price it would be worth £78,000,000.

This big increase in value has swollen the profits of mining companies and has enabled old mines to be re-opened and new ventures to be started on the Rand. The activity thus engendered has spread itself over the community, which is already helped by tax relief, made possible by the larger yields of mining imports.

AUSTRALIA'S EXPORT SURPLUS

What the 'gold premium' has done for South Africa the rise in the price of wool has done in a minor degree for Australia.

In the last wool season it is estimated that this added at least £15,000,000 to the purchasing power of the Australian farmer.

SHARE ISSUE SURPRISEFear Of Forged
Documents

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.
Some surprise was caused in the City yesterday by an announcement that certain irregular letters of allotment in connection with the issue made recently by Airspeed (1934) Ltd. had been presented to the registrar.

Brokers have been asked to present allotment letters, before dealing in them, to the registrar, the Federated Trust and Finance Corporation, for verification.

It is believed in some quarters that forged documents have been circulated by American "white collar bandits," or peddlars of worthless shares. Airspeed Ltd. was formed to take over an aircraft manufacturing business of the same name at Portsmouth, and made an issue in July of 400,000 Preferred Ordinary shares of 1s each at par. The issue was heavily over-subscribed, and the shares have been dealt in recently at 6s 6d, or a premium of 1s 9d per share over the issue price. Sir Alan Cobham is sales director of the company.

In the twelve months ending June 30 last, Australia, while greatly expanding her imports, had a visible export surplus of £38,669,000, compared with £26-662,000 in 1932-33.

Full proof of the re-establishment of Australian credit is found in the fact that, in the last 18 months, well over £100,000,000 of Australian loans have been converted to lower rates of interest in the London market, while growing deficits in the Commonwealth Budget have given way to a surplus.

New Zealand, too, seems to have entered the path of real recovery. Her trade figures showed an export surplus of £17,000,000 for the year ending June 30—nearly double the amount needed to meet payments on external debts.

CANADA'S INDUSTRIAL REVIVAL

The economic position has also been on the upgrade in Canada for the last twelve months.

Although her fortunes are considerably bound up with those of the United States, her industrial recovery is generally considered to have advanced further than that of the United States.

In spite of her great industrial expansion in recent decades, however, agriculture remains Canada's principal industry, and her progressive recovery is, in no small measure, bound up with the continuance of the rise in the price of wheat.

BRITAIN'S RECOVERY

In his Budget statement to the New Zealand House of Representatives last night, Mr. J. G. Coates, the Finance Minister, attributed the flourishing condition of the Dominion's finances largely to the economic recovery of Great Britain.

This, he said, had led to a substantial rise in New Zealand export prices for wool and meat. Export prices as a whole had risen by 20 per cent. since 1932.

This improvement in economic conditions had been reflected in public revenues—practically all items of which had exceeded Budget estimates. As a result, the deficit for last year, forecast at £2,094,000, had been reduced to £709,000.

Thanks to the generosity of Great Britain, he added, no payments were required during the year on funded war debt to the British Government.

In view of the good financial prospects for the coming year, he proposed to make the following concessions:

Reduction of the special wages tax for unemployment relief from 1s to 10d in the £ and increase of exemptions;

Five per cent. increase in Civil Service wages and salaries as from April last—being a partial restoration of cuts made in 1931 and 1932; and Five per cent. increase in old age pensions as from Oct. 1. In addition the Government proposed to increase the defence vote by £300,000.

R.M.S. MARINA?Cunarder's Name
Suggestion

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.
A loyal, enthusiastic, and topical correspondent writes:

Surely I am handed the right name for the new Cunarder now—Marina! It is a beautiful name, it is appropriate to a queen of the sea, and it comes within the eight-letter limit. One can be sure, too, that nothing would please the Queen more than to launch a ship named after her future daughter-in-law.

PRINCESS
MARINAStudent Of Modern Art

(Special Air-Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.

Prince George's engagement to Princess Marina of Greece seems to have aroused more popular interest than any other foreign match of our time, apart from the engagement of Princess Ema of Eattenberg to Alfonso King of Spain, in 1906, but in that case it was accompanied by considerable public controversy.

Another interesting foreign engagement of English royalty this century was, of course that of the Duke of Connaught's daughter, Princess Margaret Victoria, to the Crown Prince of Sweden, Princess Patricia of Connaught, Princess Mary (now the Princess Royal), and the Duke of York all married into the British aristocracy. King Edward's eldest daughter married the Duke of Fife, and Queen Victoria's daughter, Princess Louise, married Lord Lorne, afterwards Duke of Argyll.

English royalty has had several matrimonial alliances with the Baltic, but this is the first, with the Balkans. But Balkans and Baltic are joined in Princess Marina, for her grandfather was a Dane and the brother of Queen Alexandra.

Modern Art
One new interest which the Princess Marina will bring into the Royal Family will be that of modern art. The Queen is a collector of old English furniture, but has shown no interest yet, I think, in our modern furniture designers, who have a European reputation and her taste in painting runs in academic channels. There is no knowledge of any of the Princes having any interest in modern art. The Court, indeed, has shown no particular taste for contemporary art since George IV.

Princess Marina is said to be a student of modern painting and to favour modern artists in preference to those of the academic schools. She visits modern art exhibitions in Paris and London. She paints herself and knows how artists think and talk about pictures. We may therefore see the strange situation at a royal marriage in England when it is fashionable to give wedding presents of modern paintings and modern furniture and considered rather dowdy to send a wedding present of "ye olde" art. Prince George is the only one of the King's family to be painted by modern young artists. Miss Cathleen Mann and Mr. Adrian Daintry have painted his portrait. Prince George's tastes, however, are musical rather than pictorial.

HEATHER ANGELTo Be Mrs. Ralph
Forbes

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.

Mr. Ralph Forbes, the London actor, and former husband of Miss Ruth Chatterton, is to marry Miss Heather Angel, one of the small band of British actresses who have made good in Hollywood.

They are motoring to-day to Yuma, Arizona, for the ceremony, says a Reuter telegram from Hollywood.

Miss Heather Angel, who was once a dairymaid on a Banbury farm, came into prominence in the London stage production of "London Wall," by John Van Druten. She subsequently starred in numerous British films.

Mr. Ralph Forbes had a part in "The Green Hat," and later in such films as "Beau Geste," "Dogs of War" and "The Green Goddess."

Another bit of film-land romance made known to-day concerns Lili Damita, the French blonde.

It is reported in New York, says Reuter, that she is engaged to marry a millionaire Australian rancher, Mr. Hugo Brossey.

Miss Damita is at present film-making in London. She was told about the report, and she would neither confirm nor deny it.

Mr. Brossey is a friend of mine," she agreed. "But when the time comes to announce my engagement I shall be the first to do so."

Lili Damita left a convent school to become a ballet dancer, and was a star at the Casino de Paris before she became a film actress.

One of the conditions of a Hollywood contract she signed four years ago was that she should not fall in love. "You cannot be a cinema star and a housewife at the same time," she said then.

The contract was not due to expire until next year, but since it was made, she has made films in England and has appeared on the London stage.

NAVY WEEK IN LONDONCivic Visit To H.M.S.
President

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.

London's Navy Week, which has been attracting thousands of visitors daily to H.M.S. President at the Victoria Embankment, was last evening officially recognized in a civic sense by a ceremonial visit by Sir Maurice Jenks, a former Lord Mayor and at present Acting Lord Mayor in the absence of Sir Charles Collett. Over 8,000 visitors had paid for admission up to last evening.

Sir Maurice Jenks was received with a guard of honour on the quarter deck, where there was a large gathering of visitors. On behalf of the officers, staff, and ship's company, Captain J. R. Hemsted, in command of the President since 1912, extended a welcome and thanks for the official visit.

Sir Maurice Jenks, replying, said the citizens of London had always taken the deepest interest in everything affecting the Navy, knowing full well that they depended upon it for the protection of the commerce upon which the wealth of the City had been built up. As Acting Lord Mayor he was glad to accept the invitation to inspect the President. Among all other offices he held he valued none more highly than that of Admiral of the Port of London, and they were proud that the City had a distinguished nameship in the Navy, for which they were proud to provide various cups and prizes for competition.

"No Security"

It was an admirable thing, he continued, for young men to have a hobby which combined mental and physical stimulus with the knowledge that they were serving a national purpose. He wished the President every prosperity, and hoped one result would be a satisfactory number of recruits. One heard a lot of talk in these days about war. He was not a scaremonger, but one never knew what might happen, and he felt that the only real security this country had was in the strength and efficiency of its Navy. International agreements were no security whatever. They were admirable things if they were adhered to, but when human passions rose people did not always adhere to them. It was a calamity as war did occur again every one would be called upon to do his bit, and it behooved those who were capable of doing so to prepare themselves for what might be required. He hoped the President would soon be able to show a waiting list of recruits.

Sir Maurice Jenks afterwards inspected the ship and displayed great interest in the exhibits and explanatory discourses.

Club, and enclosed was £3 for Croom for hitting three 6's in one innings against Middlesex. Mr. Heath said to-day:

Professional cricketers are digging their own graves by this slow cricket. I am sure that if people were satisfied that they would see some good hitting, with a few 6's, they would fill the ground to capacity. I sincerely hope I shall have to pay out."

BREAKFAST

Buttered Eggs with Liver

Cut some calf's liver into small pieces, fry them lightly in butter with a seasoning of salt and pepper, and mix them with a thick brown sauce. Put buttered eggs in the centre of the dish and surround them with the liver.

DINNER

Cherry Flan

Make some short paste, roll it out to the thickness of a quarter of an inch and line a greased flan mould with it. Fill with raw cherries, sprinkle some castor sugar over them, and bake in a quick oven.

SUPPER

Russian Salad

Stir a thick mayonnaise sauce into an equal quantity of melted aspic jelly, add cold green peas and diced vegetables, and put the mixture into a mould to set. Serve garnished with beetroot and chopped aspic jelly.

Sweet Fillings For Pastry

VANILLA BUTTER CREAM

8 oz. sieved icing sugar
4 oz. butter
1 teaspoonful vanilla
2 tablespoonfuls tepid water
Beat butter and sugar together until creamy, add the water and flavouring, and beat until smooth. Spread or pipe inside and on top of cakes of a sponge nature.

PASTRY CUSTARD

2 oz. flour
2 oz. sugar
1 pint milk
2 tablespoonfuls whipped cream
1 tablespoonful vanilla
2 oz. butter
2 yolks of eggs
Put the flour, butter, and sugar into a saucepan with the slightly whipped eggs, add the milk by degrees, and stir over the fire until smooth and boiling. Cool and add the cream and flavouring. Can be used as a filling for tarts, tartlets, small batter cakes, and eclairs.

UNUSUAL SAND- WICHES

Summertime is sandwich time—for picnics, for afternoon tea, for luncheon. And as an escape from the conventional types the following are suggested.

EGG SANDWICH FILLING

1 hard cooked egg
1 tsp. salt
1 tbs. tomato puree

Chop the egg fine, add seasoning and puree and spread on bread. If the butter is creamed and the egg added to it the filling will not fall out of the sandwiches.

COTTAGE CHEESE SANDWICHES

1 cup drained cottage cheese
2 tsp. anchovy paste
1 tsp. drained horseradish
1 tbs. mayonnaise

Mash the cheese fine and smooth, and other ingredients and blend well. Use on white bread thinly sliced and lightly spread with mayonnaise. Garnish with sliced stuffed olives.

HONEY-CREAM SANDWICHES

Warm 1 cup honey slightly, then beat to a creamy consistency. Add heavy sweet cream, a little at a time until 1 cup has been used. Heat well and spread between thin sliced buttered white or whole wheat bread.

HOT BAKED BEAN SANDWICHES

Slice brown bread very thin and spread with creamed butter. Heat baked beans in a double boiler. Spread a bread slice with chili sauce, then with baked beans, next a slice of crisp hot bacon, then a second layer of bread, buttered side down. If desired these sandwiches may be for the filling between the first and second layers of bread, the bacon and a bit of lettuce spread with mayonnaise between the second and third layers. If preferred the beans may be mashed before they are heated.

Delicious Ways With Melon

If you wish really to appreciate melon, try preparing it this way. Melon makes an excellent prelude to a meal, served chilled and accompanied by a dish of fine castor sugar and ground ginger.

Melon Cocktail.—One melon, two tablespoonfuls of sugar, and a few sprigs of mint. Scoop out the melon with a potato ball cutter. Wash and chop mint finely. Cover the mint with the sugar and half-cup of boiling water. Let stand thirty minutes, then pour the mint syrup over the melon balls. Stand for one hour, then chill and serve ice-cold in cocktail glasses.

Melon Fritters. One melon, two egg-whites, half-tablespoonful of salad oil, two ounces flour, grated lemon rind, castor sugar, one egg yolk, and about three tablespoonfuls of cold water. Mix flour and water to a paste; beat in egg yolk and salad oil, and fold in the stiffly beaten egg-whites.

Cut the melon into strips (remove rind and seed). Put strips into a basin with grated lemon rind and sprinkle with castor sugar. Dip the pieces in batter and fry in hot fat till golden brown. Drain well, sprinkle with sugar, and serve.

Lemon Sweets

Squeeze the juice from two large lemons and grate the rind of one. Put juice and finely grated rind into a pan with a pound of granulated sugar, set the pan over gentle heat, and let the sugar dissolve slowly, stirring all the time with a wooden spoon. Be very careful that the mixture does not burn.

When the sugar has melted, bring the syrup to boiling point, try a little in cold water hardens at once. Have ready a buttered tin, pour in the mixture, and, before it has quite set, mark it into squares.

THE ART OF COOKING FISH

There being so many delicious ways of cooking fish, there is really no need for it to become monotonous.

There is a tradition, for example, that cod should be boiled and served with parsley sauce. The insipidity of fish cooked in this manner deters many persons from eating it.

In Spain salted cod is a staple dish of the greater number of the population. But it is prepared with such skill that it may be regarded as a delicacy. The fish is gently stewed in a brown gravy flavoured with herbs and spices, and when cooked in this way cod is one of the most wholesome of sea fish.

Again, in its primitive state, it has always a delicious sauce masking it, be it common parsley and butter or the royal Bearnaise. For the uninitiated the Bearnaise sauce is as follows:

Place the yolks of three eggs and a lump of butter in a saucepan; put the saucepan into another containing boiling water. Turn the butter and eggs with a wooden spoon until they thicken, add as much gravy or stock, salt and pepper, and the juice of half a lemon before serving. The sauce must not boil, or it would turn.

The inexperienced housewife often wonders why it is that boiled fish is hard and "woolly." The reason is that the fish has been cooked too fast.

In boiling fish, put it into hot, not boiling, water, then simmer gently until the fish is cooked, from eight to ten minutes to the pound, according to the thickness of the fish.

Do not boil small cuts of fish, fillets or small fish, but steam them, either in a steamer or, in the case of fillets, between two greased plates placed over a pan of boiling water.

Poaching and baking are also good methods of cooking small fish or fillets, but in both cases the cooking must be slow, or the fish becomes hard.

Fried fish is specially nutritious, as the mode of preparation ensures the retention of the gelatine and soluble substances which are lost in boiling.

If frying, whiten, soak it first in a marinade, which makes a great difference to the flavour of the fish.

APPLE AND RICE MERINGUE

Ingredients:—1 tea-cup water, 1 lb. cooking apples, 4 ozs. granulated sugar, few drops bitter, 3 ozs. whole rice, piece cinnamon stick, 4 tea-cups milk, 2 table-spoons sugar, 2 large eggs, place cherries, 2 ozs. castor sugar.

Peel and core the apples, and cut each in eight; measure water, and sugar into an aluminium pan, and bring to the boil. Add the bitter and prepared apples, and cook till tender, but not pulped. Put in the centre of a fire-proof dish, keeping back as much of the syrup as possible. Add to it a few drops of colouring if you like, and boil briskly till the syrup has been reduced to half the quantity, then pour it over the apples. Wash the rice, put into a pan with the milk, and flavouring, and simmer very gently till the rice has taken up almost all the milk—time required, from 1 1/2 to 2 hours. Remove from fire, add sugar, and remove cinnamon stick. Stir in yolk, and turn out the rice over the apples, smoothing it with a knife. Beat whites stiffly, with a pinch of salt added, very lightly stir in the sieved castor sugar, and entirely over the sweet with this meringue. Decorate with pieces of cherry, and crisp off for an hour in a very cool oven. Serve hot or cold. Sufficient for six people.

It's EASY to Catch COLD or 'FLU' when TRAVELLING

'ASPRO'

WILL PROTECT YOU

GERMS are no respecters of persons. Wherever you travel you cannot tell the moment you are likely to catch a cold—or even the 'flu.' The proved protection is 'ASPRO.' At the slightest sign of sneezing—sore throat—feverishness, etc., take 'ASPRO' according to the directions in the packet. Quick relief is assured, because 'ASPRO' expels the body poisons through the pores of the skin, and, therefore, restores one to normal health by eliminating such poisons and not suppressing them. Furthermore, 'ASPRO' is safe, sure and certain—it neither harms the heart nor stomach, and it conforms to the standard of purity laid down by the British Pharmacopoeia—the guiding authority of the medical profession.

STAUNCH BELIEVER IN 'ASPRO' NOW— SCEPTICAL AT FIRST!

Dear Sir,
I thank 'ASPRO' Tablets for warding off influenza from my little boy, aged nine, as well as myself, when my wife, who was then an invalid, was in bed. I had been battling for three weeks, during which time I had tried so many other infallible remedies. On Thursday last I carried out your advice to the letter, and I could hardly believe the fact that on Saturday morning I woke up with no cold left, nor did I cough through the night as I had been in the habit of doing. Although I have used 'ASPRO' with excellent results before, I can say positively and with very much appreciation that your assurance that 'ASPRO' would break up a cold or the 'flu' in 24 hours if the directions were properly observed, has been conclusively proven.
Yours faithfully,
(Sgt.) L. WILLIAMS.

JAVA FLIGHT THRILL

From Palembang To Sourabaya

Singapore, Sept. 13.

Two members of the Sourabaya
Flying Club on their way by air to the opening of the new aerodrome at Brastagi have arrived in Singapore. Each is flying solo.

They are Messrs. Krayenhoff and Beck. Mr. Krayenhoff is the representative of the Asiatic Petroleum Company in Java.

Mr. Krayenhoff is flying a low-wing monoplane of the type used by Capt. Neville Stack a few days when he created a record by flying from London to Copenhagen and back, a distance of 1,400 miles in 10 hours 54 minutes. It is a Miles
Hawk Major. Mr. Krayenhoff's machine, which is a Miles Hawk fitted with a Cyrus III engine in his own.

Took Off In Mist

The flight of these two men from Palembang to Singapore was an adventurous one. They took off in a thick mist and lost each other.
Each decided to land at Djambi
and did so almost together.

They intend flying on to Medan
on Friday morning. To-day Mr.
Krayenhoff's machine is being inspected by members of the Royal Singapore F.C. which is interesting to purchase one of the same type.
Mr. Beck is flying a Gypsy Moth.

A Modest Effort

Mr. Grimshaw, drawing attention to the fact that Mr. Forshaw had relinquished the office of Vice-President, said they could not afford to lose him entirely, for it was largely owing to Mr. Forshaw that the Association came into being. He proposed that he be elected an honorary life member. This also was carried by acclamation.

Mr. Forshaw remarked that he started playing football in Shanghai in 1907 and continued for many years. He admitted that, with Capt.
E. I. M. Barrett, he had a hand in forming a Football Association for Shanghai, but it was a modest effort, and it had grown out of all recognition and far beyond anything of which they dreamed.

Mr. G. L. Aitchison made an appeal for more referees. He said that a few old players were doing all the work and it had come to a state when they scarcely ever had a chance to get off and watch a game on their own.
Classes for instruction of referees were being formed and he hoped they would be well patronised and that more men would come forward and share in the refereeing.

VERY QUIET MEETING

Shanghai Football Association.

Shanghai, Sept. 14

For such a very big concern as it has become, the Shanghai Football Association had a remarkably quiet and formal annual meeting, yesterday evening, in the Cathedral School. Mr.
Rupert Grimshaw, President of this,
as of several other sporting associations in Shanghai—at one time he had soccer, hockey and tennis altogether —opened with a few words of congratulation on a most successful season, expressed hope for an equally good one to come, and made an appeal to all to give every possible support to the referees.

Mr. G. F. Forshaw, a contemporary veteran and an equally hard worker in the cause of sport, paid tribute to Mr. Grimshaw for all he had done for the Association, especially in such a trying season as the last, and proposed his re-election as President, which was carried by acclamation.

Messrs. F. S. Bridges, J. A. Quayle, H. G. Reed, and W. Z. L. Sung were elected Vice-Presidents, and Messrs.
T. W. R. Wilson, G. Chow, H. F.
Marshall, and T. Crookdale, members of the Council.

A Modest Effort

Mr. Grimshaw, drawing attention to the fact that Mr. Forshaw had relinquished the office of Vice-Pres-

AT THE KING'S

She Learned About Sailors

Lew Ayres has the enviable task of making love to Alice Faye in "She Learned About Sailors," the Fox comedy-romance coming to the King's Theatre on Sunday. Lew is the Champion heart-breaker of the U. S. Navy Alice is a night club entertainer in the picture. This gives Alice a splendid opportunity to sing "Here's the Key to My Heart" in a manner that is reminiscent of her "Nasty Man" number in George White's "Scandals."

Aiding and abetting these two with the comedy are those knock-out slapstick artists, Mitchell and Durant, who are Lew's shipmates in the picture, and Harry Green, a South American impresario. The story takes them from an Asiatic port, through the vicissitudes of life on shipboard to a cafe in San Pedro, California.

"KRAKATOA"

And Her Cruel Charm

Students in particular and the public in general will be afforded a rare opportunity by the management of the King's Theatre on Sunday when the highly interesting picture, "Krakatoa" will be shown.

A preview of this picture was screened to a large and distinguished audience yesterday, including the Hon. Sir Thomas and Lady Southorn, Mr. M. J. Green, and teachers of all the schools in the colony.

The picture which is both educational and entertaining, deals mainly with the eruptions of "Krakatoa," which is located in the Sunda Strait between Sumatra and Java, but before these are shown, the audience is enlightened with the various causes of volcanic eruptions. Scenes depicting the destruction caused by these eruptions, notably by Mount Vesuvius in Italy and Mount Fujiyama in Japan are shown, and aided by a running commentary, the audience is able to grasp the full significance of nature's mysteries.

The eruptions of Krakatoa are vividly shown, and afford a rare sight which anybody interested in nature's mysterious activities can ill afford to miss.

Krakatoa is a submarine volcano, located in the Sunda Strait between Sumatra and Java in the Indian Ocean. It acquired world wide notoriety because of a catastrophic eruption in 1883 and has recently excited fresh interest by its renewed activity.

It is accessible only by steamers of the Dutch Government and, being far off the beaten track, is not as well-known as other famous volcanoes, such as Vesuvius, Kilauea, Mont Pelee and others.

Krakatoa, in its form as observed in 1883, was destroyed by collapse or explosion, but its activity did not cease. It has been intermittently active, and the depths from which the activity came is not known, as it is not possible to venture on the island itself.

As many as 16,000 eruptions have been recorded at Krakatoa in twenty hours.

Apart from this feature, the King's Theatre management are also showing "She Learned About Sailors" an hilarious comedy, and with such an excellent programme, a visit to the King's on Sunday is well worth while.

Lew Ayres is persuaded by his two shipmates, Mitchell and Durant, to accompany them ashore at an Asiatic seaport. At a cafe Ayres meets Alice Faye, and before the fleet leave port they fall in love. When Mitchell and Durant are convinced that Alice Faye is sincere in her love for Ayres, they do everything in their power to convince Ayres that he is wrong when he decides he cannot marry her because of his financial condition.

Mitchell and Durant set the stage for an accidental meeting of the lovers in Los Angeles and when something goes wrong, they force both lovers into a trumped-up marriage. Then follows a series of hilarious events that brings the film to a lively conclusion.

Alice Faye made her film debut in George White's "Scandals," and was later seen in "Now I'll Tell" by Mr. Arnold Rothstein. Under the supervision of John Stone, producer for Fox, George Marshall directed from the screen play by William Corcoran and Henry Johnson. Richard Whiting and Sidney Clare are responsible for the song numbers.

TARZAN AND HIS MATE

Opening At The Queen's

"Johnny Weissmuller has absolutely no fear of the most ferocious wild beast because he has the perfect muscular and nervous coordination of an animal himself." Such is the interesting analysis offered by George Emerson, famous "big animal" expert, after seeing Weissmuller perform with animals in "Tarzan and His Mate," new adventure drama opening to-day for an extended run at the Queen's Theatre. Emerson made his reputation with the Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey Circus where he trained and cared for savage beasts for more than fifteen years.

"Weissmuller is probably the only person who has ever walked into a small enclosure with an African rhinoceros and lived to tell the story," says Emerson.

"Action of the picture required that he face the rhino," Weissmuller approached the beast. In a fraction of an instant the rhino turned and started a charge, but not before the quick muscles of the athlete enabled him to reach shelter behind a barricade. His eye and nerves were even quicker than those of the animal.

"This tremendous speed of muscular action enabled Weissmuller to 'outstep' other animals used in the picture. An infuriated lioness charged him in one scene, and he reached a camera cage before she could claw him. He watched the eyes of each beast and seemed to get a signal as they tensed to spring. It is a warning known to all animal trainers, but he is the first man I have seen who has this ability naturally, without working animals every day. He learned 'knee-control' on elephants the first week they were used in the picture. With a few instructions in command and handling he became friends with a 'lead' elephant and could handle an entire herd of twenty or more during action when trainers could not assist. 'Yama,' the chimpanzee, was Weissmuller's 'pal' both on the screen and off. When others in the company could not approach the chimp, he would beg the 'swimmer' for bananas and orange peels. Even ostriches, most excitable of all feathered jungle denizens, allowed him to approach when cameramen and others were suffering from kicks.

"If Weissmuller were not doing so well on the screen I could always get him a job as animal trainer with any circus in America."

The new picture contains even more breath-taking thrills than the first story, "Tarzan, the Ape Man." Its cast includes Maureen O'Sullivan, Neil Hamilton, Forrester Harvey, Boris Lloyd, William Stack, Desmond Roberts, Paul Cavanaugh and Nathan Curry. Cedric Gibbons, noted art director and designer of M-G-M settings, directed.

Barbara Kent is returning to the screen after an eighteen month's absence. She has signed a contract with M.G.M.

John Gilbert is considering an offer to make a picture for B.I.P. at Ektree.

GABLE-COLBERT COMBINATION

Proves A Huge Success

Clark Gable plays the unusual role of a reporter in "It Happened One Night" which opened at the King's Theatre yesterday. As was expected the picture drew crowded houses and the new screen combination—Gable and Claudette Gable—proved to be all that was expected by those who know these two extremely versatile players.

That "It Happened One Night" might possibly have emerged as anything but the grand entertainment it really is, is a prospect hardly compatible with the film's great cast, great story and great director.

How, for instance, could the picture fail to "click," in the parlance of the studios, with Clark Gable and Claudette Colbert, co-starred together for the first time on the screen, in the leading roles; with Frank Capra directing—the same Capra that gave motion pictures "Lady For A Day," "American Madness" and "Platinum Blonde," with Robert Riskin writing the screen play based on the Cosmopolitan Magazine story by Samuel Hopkins Adams.

It was, evidently, to be expected that "It Happened One Night" would rank high among the year's best. That it has surpassed even the most ambitious estimates is a tribute to the fine acting of the two stars, the direction of Capra, Riskin's sparkling script and the elaborate production afforded it by the Columbia Studios.

Gable, as the cynical, rough newspaper reporter, Peter Warne is again the Gable the fans want to see. He treats Claudette rough and she likes it. Miss Colbert, as the runaway heiress, Ellen Andrews, is human, lovable and tantalizing. She has never before met a man like Peter, who tells her she's worthless, spoiled and selfish. Claudette first resents this treatment, then tolerates it and then loves it!

The screen story tells of an heiress, Ellen Andrews, who has married a worthless playboy against her father's wishes. Her father kidnaps her and holds her prisoner abroad his yacht in Florida until he can get the marriage annulled. Ellen escapes and tries to get north to join her husband.

It is on the trip that she meets Peter Warne (Gable) who recognizes her as the missing heiress. Although there is a sizeable reward for information about her, he protects her from detectives and others intent on the reward, and sees her through, even after they lose their money and are forced to hitch-hike along the highway, sleep in strawstacks and subsist on raw carrots.

The supporting cast, as in every Capra-directed picture, is excellent. Walter Connolly plays Claudette's father, Jameson Thomas is the man she is struggling north to

THE IRONY OF FATE

One of Hollywood's unconscious ironies is the role which Charles Ray is playing as his "come-back" in Paramount's "Ladies Should Listen."

To appreciate this, one must go back to the early days when Ray was one of the biggest reigning stars and when his house was one of the showplaces of the film colony.

It was Ray who had the first English butler in Hollywood, and many of the other stars used to sneak up, ring the front door bell and then hide in the bushes all for the sake of seeing that "curiosity," the English butler, open the door.

Now it is Charles' turn to provide amusement in the same manner by playing a light comedy goorman in a fashionable French hotel.

join Roscoe Karns is a travelling salesman who recognizes the girl as the runaway Ellen Andrews and who tries to bluff Gable, but finds himself out-bluffed. Alan Hale, Blanche Frederici, Ward Bond, Mickey Daniels, George Breakston, Father Dodd and Irving Bacon were spotted, in small but important roles, and even the minor bits are played by seasoned and experienced troupers.

A paragraph should be devoted to the adaptation by Robert Riskin. He has done as good a job as he did on "Lady For A Day." His dialogue and adaptation could not be improved upon.

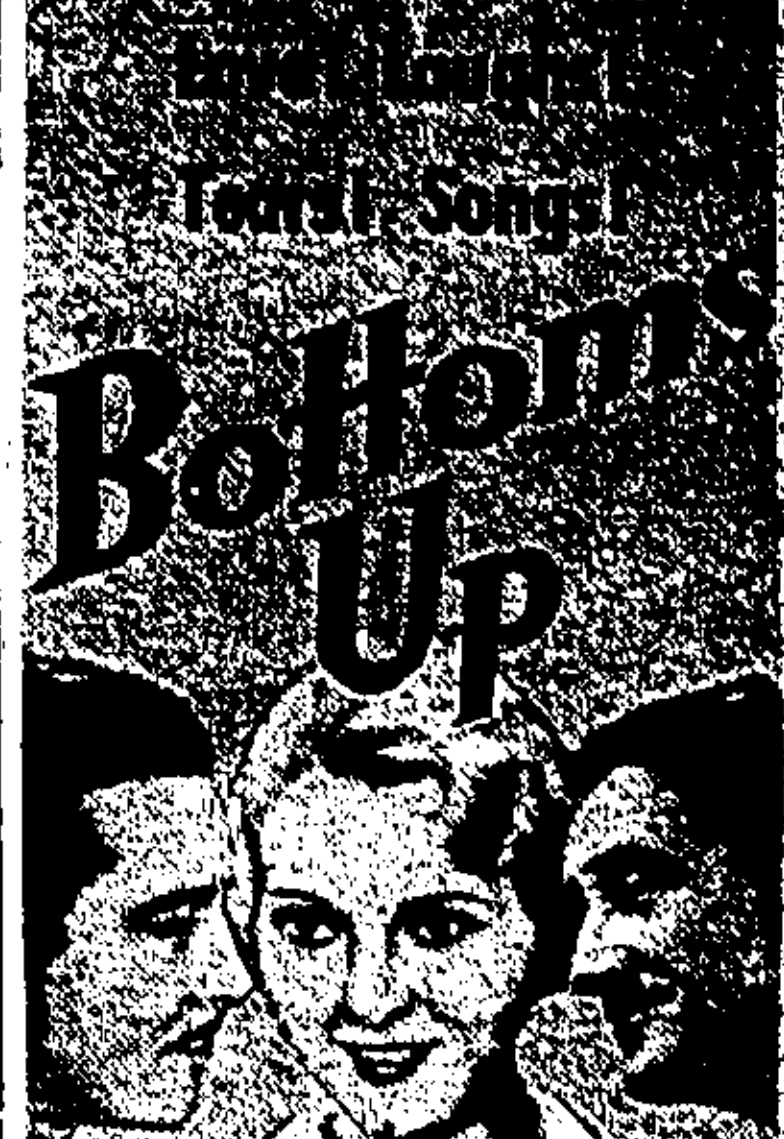

Summing up, "It Happened One Night" can be listed as the best picture Gable has done, the best picture Colbert has done, and the best picture Capra has done. And that's saying a lot, but we believe the picture deserves it, and then some!

Around the Courts

A Woman Of No Nationality

"She is a woman of no nationality," remarked Mr. Wynne-Jones at Kowloon Magistrate's yesterday when a 34-year-old Mexican woman named Mrs. Refugio Nevarez stated that she was the wife of Ng Wing, aged 49, who was charged for soliciting for immoral purposes.

"By marriage she is of Chinese nationality," said Sub-Inspector W. Hynes, who was prosecuting.

"I don't think the laws of China allow it," replied Mr. Wynne-Jones.

Sub-Inspector W. Hynes, stated that on the night of September 17, Ng Wing was walking in the company of a woman, in Gascoigne Road near Chi Wo Street, and on seeing him said "Hullo," and asked him a certain question, whereupon Sub-Inspector Hynes arrested him.

Mrs. Refugio Nevarez then went to the box and stated that she was a native of Mexico and in 1931 had married the defendant in Mexico. She stated she had no papers as they were left behind in Mexico when she came to Hong Kong about four months ago. She also stated that she had a son of 13 by the defendant. On the night in question she admitted telling her husband to approach Sub-Inspector Hynes.

Defendant was sentenced to three months' hard labour.

MUL-TSAI CASE

On a charge of having kept an unregistered mul-tai, Leung Wah, a clerk, residing at No. 74 Hennessy Road, first floor, was fined $50 by Mr. W. M. Thomson at Central Magistrate's yesterday.

Sub-Inspector Fraser, of the S. C. A., said the girl came to his office on August 31 and said she was an unregistered mul-tai in the employ of the defendant. She also complained of having been beaten with a feather duster. There was a faint mark on her mouth, and marks on her right forearm and right leg, but the medical officer, who had examined her, was of opinion that the beating did not amount to cruelty. The girl was presented by her mother for $130 (Canton currency) to defendant's mother, who in time presented her to defendant as part of his marriage dowry. No wages had been paid her.

Defendant stated that he was under the impression that the girl was not a mul-tai and that it was not necessary to register her.

Another Case

A summons for failing to report the change of address of a registered mul-tai was issued against Wong Ho-ye, a widow, residing at No. 55 Bonham Road, first floor. She was dealt with by Mr. E. W. Hamilton, who imposed a fine of $10.

Inspector Fraser said the girl was treated as a member of the family, and was last seen by an Inspector on March 19, 1932. She was one of about 700 girls they had been unable to locate.

NO IMPORT DECLARATIONS

For failing to furnish the Import and Export Department with an import declaration within seven days, four business firms were each fined $25 by Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistrate's yesterday.

The Mitsubishi Shoji Kaisha firm, No. 14 Pedder Street, were summoned in respect of 3,484 tons of coal which arrived in the Colony on the steamer Mikage Maru on August 1 from Sakito.

The Kin Cheong firm, No. 14 Queen's Street, were summoned in respect of 70 bales of raw silk imported on the steamer Sai On on August 1 from Canton.

Hoo Wai & Company, No. 49 Bonham Road, West, were summoned in respect of 700 tons of coal imported on the steamer Kamona on August 1. S. Kato & Company, No. 16-17 Queen's Road Central, was summoned in respect of 344 cases of rayon yarn imported on the steamer Nagato Maru on August 1.

Solicitor Fined

Before Mr. Macfadyen at Central Magistrate's yesterday, Mr. T. P. K. Kemble, the local solicitor, was summoned for allowing two dogs, a setter and a terrier, on Shek-O beach without muzzles at 4.30 p.m. on August 25.

Mr. Kemble admitted the offence but explained that the dogs were usually kept inside his house, which was not more than five minutes' walk from the beach. As the result of being fed by people camping in tents on the beach, the dogs were encouraged to get down to the beach whenever the opportunity occurred. This was what happened in this case. The dogs slipped out and went on the beach. He sent a servant out after them and they were rounded up within five minutes.

Sergeant Brown agreed that the dogs were not on the beach for more than five minutes altogether. The dogs had muzzles, but they had apparently torn them off. The muzzles were hanging down from their necks.

A fine of $10 in respect of each dog was imposed.

A similar fine was imposed on Mrs. M. A. Whitlam, who was summoned for allowing a spaniel and a terrier on Big Wave Bay beach without muzzles at 3.40 p.m. on August 26.

BIG OPIUM HAUL

As the result of a raid, conducted by Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmit, on No. 3 Heard Street, on the morning of September 13, 17,409 taels of raw opium, valued at $35,000, were seized. The opium was found concealed in 303 cow hides. There were 87 bales of such hides on the premises, which was rented as a godown.

The keeper of the godown, Wong Tak, was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at the Central Magistrate's yesterday with possession of the opium, and was fined $5,000, or in default, twelve months' hard labour.

Defendant stated that a friend had introduced him as a godown keeper, and he was given the job. He could not find the friend.

It was stated that the bales of hides came from Canton on the steamer Hsinphong.

Miss D. F. Albert of 5 Cameron Road, was fined $5 by Mr. Wynne-Jones at Kowloon Magistrate's yesterday, for violating the conditions of her wireless licence by failing to notify the Postmaster General of a change of address.

Kwok Kin, a house coolie at the Matilda Hospital, was charged before Mr. E. W. Hamilton at Central Magistrate's yesterday with the theft of two sets of towel rails and standards from the War Memorial Nursing Home. He was fined $10, or in default, three months' hard labour.

An additional charge of receiving was also preferred. Sergeant Harris said for a reward, saying that there had been a number of thefts of rails, and stock was being taken. Defendant was accordingly remanded until today in police custody.

A fine of $5,000 with the alternative of twelve months' hard labour was imposed on Tsai Pak, 34-year-old unemployed, by Mr. E. L. Wynne-Jones, at Kowloon Magistrate's yesterday for having in his possession 44 bales of raw opium. Revenue Officer Brown stated that defendant was a Chinese from Yuen Lung, New Territories, and in his possession were two cake boxes containing 17 tins of raw opium. On being searched, ten more tins of raw opium were also found.

THE CHINESE CHAMBER

To Be A Limited
Company

That the Chamber should be registered as a Limited Company, on the lines of the Hong Kong General Chamber of Commerce, was the subject which was discussed at a meeting held at the Chamber's Headquarters yesterday afternoon.

It will be recalled that this proposal was made by Mr. Ko Wing Po last February.

The draft articles of association were considered, yesterday and as there are still several articles in connection with the registration of the Chamber to be reconsidered, it was decided to discuss the matter again at the next monthly committee meeting after which they will be submitted to the Registrar of Companies for registration.

Mr. Wong Kwong Tin was in the chair, and was supported by Mr. Lui Yam Shuen, treasurer, Mr. Chan Ping Au, secretary, and Dr. Li Ping Sun. Others present were Messrs. M. K. Lo, Chung Wai Lum, Sinn Pui Kwan, Chiu Chiu Fan, Au Chak Sum, Chan Kam Por, Li Sing Kuei, Fung Shiu Tong, Chung Chi Lam, Chan Kim Ting, Mok Lin, Kwok Yau Ting, Wong Mow Lum, Fan Siu Nam, So Tze Hang, Chow Sing Chi, Chui Kwok Hing, Lau King Ching, Yue Chuek Sang, Ko Wing Kok and Yung Koon Man.

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER

DEATH SENTENCE PASSED AT THE SESSIONS

Prisoner's Statement From The Dock

"Keung Chi-Pan, the sentence of the Court on you is that you be taken hence to the place from whence you came and thence to the place of execution; and that you be there hanged by the neck until you are dead; and that your body be buried in such place as His Excellency the Governor shall order. And may the Lord have mercy on your soul."

In these words, the Chief Justice, His Honour, Mr. A. D. A. MacGregor yesterday passed sentence on Keung Chi-Pan, who was unanimously found guilty of a charge of murder of a 25-year-old woman at 211 Lai-chikok Road in the small hours of July 21.

The closing scene of the trial was marked by tense silence following the verdict of "Guilty." The jury only took three minutes to arrive at a verdict. His Lordship after observing that the verdict was the only one which the jury could have found asked prisoner if he had anything to say as to why sentence of death should not be passed upon him according to law.

"I Was In A Rage"

The prisoner who appeared to be numbed by the verdict, spoke in a scarcely audible voice to the interpreter and his words were that the woman was his wife. "That man committed adultery with my wife. I did not intend to murder her. I discovered both the man and woman were naked. I was then in a rage and I did not know how I stabbed her."

At the close of his statement His Lordship passed sentence. Yesterday morning, a witness, Keung Sau, who stated he was an elder brother of the accused stated that he and several others witnessed the marriage of the accused with the deceased.

After this evidence the jury left the court whilst His Lordship put to the defending counsel the points on which he would require enlargement before putting his charge to the jury.

His Lordship said: Assuming that the jury disbelieve the last witness, then may I hear you as to whether there is any evidence of marriage and secondly, if they believe that accused and deceased were husband and wife, is there any evidence that the provocation which was present was grave and sudden?

Mr. Lo said the couple had lived together for a considerable time and had had two children, and it was the discovery of adultery which gave provocation to the accused.

If accused had ocular evidence of the adultery, he submitted that the charge should be reduced to manslaughter. Accused went to the floor to confirm his suspicions, gaining access by means of the rope. The knife he may have been taken with him to open a window or perhaps to be used in self-defence.

Final Address

The jury were recalled and Mr. Lo made his final address. After repeating his submission that the charge should be reduced to manslaughter if adultery could be proved and the fact of the marriage between Keung Wai-Lan and accused was established, Mr. Hin-Sing Lo went over the evidence of the alleged marriage.

He submitted that the brother's evidence as to the ceremony had not been shaken and their living together afterwards was evidence of their legal marriage.

When accused returned from Canton and learnt that his wife was staying with Yim Chun, he tried to see them several times and then determined to go at night and find out for himself on what terms of intimacy they were. The fact that he went at night-time taking a rope and knife with him could be used to allege that he went with malice, but it was also consistent with the theory that he went to get confirmation.

The manner in which accused made his escape also fell into line with the suggestion "he (counsel) wished to make—that when he actually saw the pair naked together in the cubicle, he lost control of himself and stabbed the woman to death."

Following a remark by Counsel as to reducing the offence, His Lordship interjected: Surely there is a presumption that all unlawful homicide is murder, and it is for you to satisfy the jury that there are circumstances existing which justify the reduction of the offence from murder to manslaughter.

Mr. Lo said he would suggest that accused did not go to the flat with any intention of killing but that he lost control of himself.

Mr. Fraser's Address

The Assistant Attorney General said he would confine himself to answering the points raised by counsel for the defence.

The Crown had strongly challenged the evidence of the brother who had spoken of the marriage. The evidence of Yim Hei as to the visit accused made to the flat was corroborated by accused himself. If he lost control as was suggested, he certainly regained control very quickly as was witnessed by the excuse he made when accosted by the policeman shortly after the killing.

If the jury agreed that the union between accused and the woman was unlawful, he would feel justified in his cross-examination of Pastor Lee Kau Yan. Excluding the brother's evidence, there were only the statements of accused himself that he was married to Keung Wai-Lan and against this there was the evidence of the father, who said his daughter was married to Yim Chun and produced a photograph of them together.

The only justification for reducing the offence of murder to manslaughter in such a case was if accused found the woman, who must be his wife "in flagrante delicto" and yielded to the killing without meditation. "But in this case the knife and rope, the entrance at night and the arrangements for flight, had to be explained. If he had merely sought ocular confirmation of his suspicions he could have seen through the window."

What the defence had suggested was nothing more than irresistible impulse—which was not provocation.

In one statement accused had said that Yim Chun had taken not only his wife but his furniture. He showed that he was willing to accept compensation for the furniture—and for the wife. He wanted his $80 marriage money back, and yet he says that when he became aware of the adultery he was overcome.

Despite the sympathy which the jury would feel for any cogent reason advanced by the defence, they should in this case find him guilty of the murder with which he was charged.

THE SUMMING-UP

In the course of his summing up, the Chief Justice reviewed the evidence. He pointed out that if the jury were satisfied that the accused and the married woman were not husband and wife, the defence failed. The reason for that was, the law could be relaxed in the case of husband and wife, so as to partially excuse a husband if he were in any such circumstances such as the finding of his wife in the arms of her lover, but the law had never protected a man, who found his mistress or fiancée or some person with whom he had carried on a liaison, under similar circumstances. "If you are not satisfied that they were husband and wife I feel it my duty to instruct you that the defence must fail."

After reviewing the evidence upon other aspects of the case his Lordship concluded by reminding the jury that they must, if they were to find a verdict of manslaughter, be able to say to

WING ON BANK

Hundreds Of Visitors At Opening

MODERN INSTITUTION

Many friends and well-wishers of the Wing On Company yesterday paid a visit to the new bank which this Company has started in Des Voeux Road and which is to be known as the Wing On Bank. The visitors exceeded five hundred and they were cordially greeted and hospitably treated by the officers of the Bank.

Many of the visitors were shown over the bank's strong room which is of ultra-modern design. The door of the strong room, built by the Master Safe Company, is of seven inch solid steel. It is operated by means of double combination locks. The walls of the strong room, where depositors' valuables will be kept are four feet thick all round and within the strong room is constructed a second safe in which the bank's valuables will be kept.

The Company is incorporated under the Companies Ordinance, 1911, with an authorised capital of $10,000,000, which is divided into $5,000,000 in Hong Kong currency and $5,000,000 in Shanghai currency. The shares are distributed into 50,000 at $100 Shanghai currency and an equal number at the same figure in Hong Kong currency.

The Wing On Co., Ltd., the well-known departmental store in Hong Kong are founders and promoters of the new bank. They are founders and promoters also of numerous other concerns in the Colony and in Shanghai and Australia.

The new bank will conduct banking business of every description, including current accounts and a savings bank. It is the aim of the management to give the public the fullest possible service. The new premises are commodiously fitted with modern ideas.

In addition to the visit by many residents from all sections of the community, the bank was the recipient of many congratulatory messages both locally and from abroad.

Picnic For The Blind

(To the Editor, "Hong Kong Daily Press")

Sir,—In past years the St. Peter's Church Group of the V.D.M.A. have undertaken the responsibility of arranging a yearly outing to Shek-O for the inmates of the Blind Home at Pokfulam and for a visit to the Home at Chinese New Year when each girl is given a present.

In view of the fact that St. Peter's Church is now closed, the Kowloon Tong Group of the V.D.M.A. have taken over this responsibility, and it is earnestly hoped that the public will give its same generous support both as regards donations and loan of cars.

The outing to Shek-O this year is fixed for Saturday, October 27th, and I shall be very glad to receive donations and/or offers of cars.—Yours, etc.,

R. MOW FUNG,
Group Secretary,

themselves that the accused had satisfied them beyond any reasonable doubt that the couple were husband and wife. If that failed the defence failed. If they were satisfied, however, that they were married, the jury must be able to say to themselves that the accused had satisfied them beyond any reasonable doubt that there was that grave provocation, which the law recognised, because of the accused finding his wife in the arms of her lover.

Benefit Of The Doubt

"Even if you found that," said his Lordship, "you must be able to say that there is no premeditation in this case."

"If you cannot answer these questions in favour of the accused, I am obliged to direct you that the defence must fail, and the defence, having failed, there can be no other suggestion of circumstances, tending to excuse or minimise this terrible crime, if the defence fails."

THE PRINCE OF WALES AS BEST MAN

The King's Wedding Present To His Son

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.

Prince George and his fiancée, Princess Marina of Greece, left Salzburg for Lake Blud, in Yugoslavia, where they will continue their holiday as the guests of Prince and Princess Paul of Yugoslavia.

Princess Paul is Princess Marina's sister. All four have been staying in Salzburg, at the Hotel de l'Europe, and they left together. On leaving Prince George signed the visitors' book as "George von England."

Princess Marina travelled in a car driven by Prince George today. She wore a grey English tailor-made costume with a beret. They looked radiantly happy.

Prince George will return to London in a week or ten days. And his fiancée may accompany him.

Prince George and Princess Marina will be married in the late autumn. The wedding will most probably take place in Westminster Abbey and the Prince of Wales will be the best man, with the Dukes of York and Gloucester as groomsmen.

The wedding will be by licence issued at the Archbishop of Canterbury's Faculty Office, and the Archbishop will perform the ceremony himself, assisted by the Bishops of London, Winchester and Oxford.

There will be a State procession along the Mall, and afterwards the bride and bridegroom will return to Buckingham Palace for the wedding breakfast.

More than 1,000 guests will be invited to the wedding.

It is anticipated that there will be many visiting royals, including the former King and Queen of Greece, the King and Queen of Spain, and perhaps the Queen of Norway and the King of Denmark.

THE KING'S GUEST

If precedent is followed Princess Marina will shortly pay a visit to England as the guest of the King and Queen.

She will then rejoin her parents and be busy preparing her trousseau.

The Royal yacht Victoria and Albert will probably be sent to bring her over from Calais and Prince George and his entourage will be on the landing stage to greet her as she sets foot on British soil.

A royal salute will be fired from Dover Castle and all naval vessels will dress ship.

In London Princess Marina will probably stay with the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace and will drive from there in State to Westminster Abbey.

FALSE SWEARING

Warning By Magistrate

A warning to perjurers was sounded by Mr. E. W. Hamilton, at Central Magistrate's Court yesterday, when prior to dealing with a traffic summons, he remarked that if there had been a good deal of hard swearing in traffic cases, and obviously one party or other had been swearing falsely. False swearing, he said, was just as bad in traffic cases as in criminal ones, and he wished to make it quite clear that if he had any reason to allocate any false swearing, or any evasion in speaking the truth, he would take a serious step as he is in his power.

Mr. P. C. Morgan of the P.W.D. was summoned for disobeying a traffic signal in Hollywood Road on September 6. After evidence had been given by both parties which was entirely contradictory, Mr. Hamilton dismissed the summons, saying that one of the parties had not spoken the truth. He thought that the police constable on duty had probably made a mistake in giving the signal.

It was stated by the prosecution that after the right-of-way signal had been given to Traffic Sergeant T. McInnis who was coming down the slope leading to the Central Police Station, defendant's car which was coming from the east—Wyndham Street—continued its way and turned into the slope, disregarding the signal.

Evidence given by defendant, and Mr. H. W. Layden, who was a passenger in the car, was to the effect that the constable at first gave the signal in their favour and while just as they were turning into the slope, he changed it.

PRINCE GEORGE'S TITLE

It is considered unlikely that the Prince will wed as "Prince George." In recent years there is no precedent for a "Princess George of England."

At present the Prince is not a peer of the realm and only bears a courtesy title as a son of the sovereign.

The King's wedding present to his son will most likely be a dukedom. Among the titles the Prince may assume are Duke of Kent or Duke of Edinburgh. These have long been royal titles, and both dukedoms have been extinct for some years.

FIRST TIME FOR 52 YEARS

Not until the King has given his formal consent by Order in Council can the Duke of Norfolk as Earl Marshal, begin to make preparations for the wedding.

This is required under the Royal Personages Marriage Act. It is anticipated that a meeting of the Privy Council will be held at Ballmoral Castle, where the King is now in residence.

The Earl Marshal will then be commanded to search the precedents of royal marriages to establish the exact form the ceremony will take.

Not since the wedding of the Duke of Albany, fourth son of Queen Victoria, in 1882 has a younger son of the sovereign married a foreign princess. That will be the immediate precedent consulted.

THE KING'S APPROVAL

But the Earl Marshal will also refer to the procedure adopted for the wedding of the Duke of Connaught to the then Princess Louise Margaret, daughter of Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia, in 1879.

The marriage of King Edward, then Prince of Wales, to Princess Alexandra in 1863 will not be used as a precedent in this case.

When all details have been approved by the King, the actual arrangements for the ceremony will be left to the Lord Chamberlain.

A Home In London?

Finding a house for the royal couple presents considerable difficulties.

It is suggested that they might live at White Lodge, Richmond Park, which was the first home of the Duke and Duchess of York. At present, however, the King has granted the use of this house to Lord Lee of Fareham.

Frogmore, near Windsor, is another possibility.

But friends of Prince George believe that he will prefer to go on living in London.

At present he shares bachelor quarters in York House, St. James' Palace, with his brother, the Prince of Wales.

PROTECTION OF NON-ARYANS

Government Measure

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1924. Received, September 19, 7.30 p.m.)

Berlin, Sept. 19.

As far as business lives are concerned, it is forbidden to make any distinction between Aryans and non-Aryans, either as employees or business firms, says a circular just issued by the Reichs Labour Minister to combat the anti-Semitic movement beginning again among the extremists.

It is forbidden to discharge employees on racial grounds where their services were otherwise satisfactory, says the Minister. Similarly, the boycotting of non-Aryan businesses is illegal.

"Also non-Aryan workers are under the protection of the Government," concludes the circular. —Transocean Kuo Min.

HONG KONG, SEPTEMBER 20, 1934.

WAKE UP, HONG KONG

In every part of the world efforts are being made to bring about an improvement in trade. Singapore and the neighbouring places have been particularly active in this respect and from the latest news received, it is learnt that Penang is to have an Old World Fair. It might be argued that these Fairs have no bearing on trade, but indirectly they do have a good effect and have been used for centuries for this purpose. For one thing the Fair will attract visitors to Penang and surely there is no need emphasizing that visitors are the people who spend most of the money these days. The hotels and stores, therefore, reap a harvest, and if the thing is done properly, it will mean more visitors when the next Fair is staged and to say the least it is good advertisement for the place.

Hong Kong had one trade exhibition and from all accounts it proved a great success, but did the powers-that-be smile while the iron was hot? Not in the slightest. Hong Kong was content to sit back and rest on her laurels and the result was that while other people have been pushing forward, nothing further was done here. Some people would even go so far as to say that trade has gone from bad to worse. That we contend, is not the case, for while trade has retarded in certain lines, very definite progress has been made in others so that on an average Hong Kong might be said to have maintained a fair average. But merely maintaining "a fair average" is not good enough.

The trouble with the Colony is that there is not only a lack of confidence, but also a lack of enterprise while the spirit to support local industries is conspicuous by its absence. Several sound suggestions have been put before the public but they were turned down as "impracticable" even before they were given a trial. The case of pig-breeding in the New Territories is a good instance though the commission which has been appointed to investigate trade conditions in general will be looking into the matter while officialdom has at long last recognised the value of it.

Another example of how unconcerned the government can be regarding possible sources of revenue is its attitude towards commercial aviation in the Colony. Some years ago Hong Kong was spoken of as the potential leading airport in the East. As in most cases enthusiasm reached a very high pitch when the project was first mooted but since then the matter has been allowed to fall back into the background while other less important schemes have been carried out. We have

YESTERDAY'S WEDDING

Chinese Families United

An interesting wedding was solemnised according to Chinese custom yesterday afternoon at the Hotel Cecil, when Miss Cheung Sul Ying daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cheung Moo Fung well-known merchant in Sydney, Australia, became the bride of Mr. Lai Hong Ning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lai Sin Hing.

Both families are well-known in the Colony, and there was a big attendance including many ladies at the reception subsequently held at the Hotel Cecil.

Mr. Li Yuek Mui officiated at the wedding ceremony. The toast of the happy couple was proposed, and the bridegroom suitably replied, thanking the guests for their presence. Mr. Lai Hong Tai was the best man.

TYPHOON WARNINGS

At 5.12 p.m. yesterday the local Observatory reported:—
The typhoon is situated about 120 miles to the south of Naha (Loochoos), moving slowly northward.
Manila cable warnings received by the American consul at 10 a.m. stated:
Typhoon in about 129 degrees Long. E. and 200 degrees Lat. N., moving N.W.
Cyclone or typhoon east of Balintang Channel, moving W.N.W. or N.

already dealt with the Budget for 1935 in these columns and have nothing to add beyond the fact that a close scrutiny of the Bill will show that the attitude adopted by the Government is not what may be expected at a time when the Colony is experiencing such difficulties in trade.

Reverting to the question of a Trade Fair we trust the Government, in conjunction with the British and Chinese Chambers of Commerce, will do their best to bring this about at an early date. It is a pity that the idea of holding a trade exhibition in conjunction with the Military Tattoo was not thought of. It would have been a good combination and Hong Kong might have had a Carnival Week on the same lines as that in Manila. It is, however, not too late to combine a Trade Exhibition and the Race Week. Shipping companies can, and we feel sure they will, co-operate by offering reduced fares to Hong Kong. The Government too can help in more ways than one. The old saying that prosperity is round the corner may be applied to Hong Kong but so long as the Colony in general is content to pursue a "wait and see" policy, prosperity will remain round the corner. We must be up and doing if we are to bring about an improvement, so wake up, Hong Kong!

DUTCH BUDGET

Large Deficit To Be Curtailed

The Hague, Sept. 18.
A deficit of 92,992,000 guilders is anticipated in the 1935 budget, it was revealed at the opening of the Dutch Parliament to-day.

But drastic cuts in expenditure will reduce the deficit to only 782,000 guilders, according to the Ministry.

The estimates include a contribution of 12,000,000 guilders towards the Navy in the Dutch East Indies.

NO AMERICA'S CUP RACE

Adverse Sailing Condition

After two postponements of a quarter of an hour each in anticipation that the favourable sailing conditions which obtained the previous day would return for the great contest between the Endeavour and Rainbow, the race had to be abandoned for the day as expectations were not realised.

News fit bits in connection with the contest until the time of decision to have no race are given in the cables below.

Newport, R.I., Sept. 19.
The next race in the America's Cup series is being sailed to-day. The weather forecast is moderate with a northerly wind and possibly a calm sea which conditions are likely to suit the Rainbow.

Critics are now saying that the Yankee, the boat that was defeated narrowly by the Rainbow in the Cup trials would have stood a better chance.

It was revealed that three of the best known yachtsmen in the North Atlantic offered their services to Mr. Sopwith since they thought he was under-manned, but Mr. Sopwith declined the offer with thanks.

At 10.45 the skies are overcast with a south eastern breeze blowing at four knots over a smooth sea.

Mr. Sopwith set his sails early, a main sail and Genoa jib and later doused the Genoa jib. The sea is becoming glass-like.

At 11.17 the yachts were practically becalmed. Many expect another "no contest" as the wind is not sufficient even to blow out the flags of the Committee boat. The sea is like a mill pond.

At 11.35 p.m. the race was postponed for quarter of an hour. The wind was so slight that the committee was unable to determine the direction.

President Roosevelt will be only able to watch half of to-day's race, since he must proceed to New York to-day.

The odds will be lengthened against Endeavour since the wind is so slight. The Endeavour left the harbour considerably earlier than the Rainbow, both under main sail.

At 11.59 the race was postponed for a further quarter of an hour and later it was decided that there will be no race to-day.

SOVIET RUSSIA ENTERS THE LEAGUE

Salutory Address by M. Litvinoff

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Geneva, Sept. 18. Soviet Russia became a full-fledged member of the League of Nations on Tuesday evening when the League Assembly passed favourably on the motion for her entry. As expected, the procedure proved to be a mere formality with everything smoothly pre-arranged behind the scenes under the French tutelage. The final vote resulted in thirty-nine "yes" and three "nays", seven abstaining and three were absent.

The vote on the motion to grant Soviet Russia a permanent seat on the League Council was then passed by forty votes, with no "nays". The high point of the sitting came shortly afterwards when at 7.15 the Soviet delegation, headed by Litvinoff, triumphantly entered the hall and took their seats amid applause. Some delegates including the Roumanian Foreign Minister, Titulescu, went over to the Russians to offer congratulations. The Soviet delegation had entered the building sometime before the votes were taken, so that the large crowd which had assembled in the adjacent streets hoping to witness their arrival were disappointed.

The sitting which was originally scheduled to open at three o'clock in the afternoon had been postponed to six in the evening, the reason being, it was reported, that Litvinoff wanted to put some finishing touches to his speech which he will deliver to the Assembly in the course of the evening and in which he is expected to reply to Motta's, the President of the Swiss Federal Council, catalogue of objections to Russia's entry into the League.—Transocean Kuo Min.

DE VALERA'S COMMENT

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Geneva, Sept. 18. A short debate preceding the vote taken over Russia's entry into the League was started by the Irish Premier, de Valera who stated that Motta had in his Monday's speech spoken on behalf of the entire Christendom which was sorely alarmed over the developments in Soviet Russia. De Valera characterised Barthou's statement that Russia's entry was solely a practical issue carried little conviction. If Christians in the entire world should lose confidence in the League as the instrument of peace then the League will never be able to fulfil its tasks. In conclusion, de Valera requested that the Soviet Government should extend those guarantees which had recently been granted to the American citizens as regard their individual human rights to the citizens of all other states as well as to the Russian people themselves. After the representatives of Argentina, Holland and Portugal had once more voiced their misgivings, the Assembly proceeded to take the vote, the result of which has already been reported by Transocean.

LITVINOFF'S ADDRESS

The President of the League, Sandler announced that the Russian delegation consisted of the Foreign Commissar, Litvinoff, the Ambassador to Rome, Badyomik and the Plenipotentiary Minister to Finland, Borstein.

Litvinoff then rose amid loud applause to deliver his salutory address. He said that the memory of the long period of hostility which the Soviet Union experienced from many European countries was unpleasant, but it was necessary to recall it in order that the attitude of the Soviet nation towards the League of Nations during that period may be understood. The speaker went on to say that a State must have the right to develop according to her own needs and Russia represents in Geneva a new system, especially in regard to internal economies. Litvinoff then attempted to demonstrate to the Assembly that Russia had already taken her place for many years in the work of international co-operation.—Transocean Kuo Min.

A PERMANENT SEAT

Geneva, Sept. 18. The League Assembly granted the Soviet a permanent seat on the League Council following the decision to admit the Soviet into the League of Nations. No negative votes were cast, but ten nations abstained from voting. M. Sandler, Chairman of the League Assembly, in a speech of welcome, said that the presence of the Soviet delegation proved that the tendency of the States is to work towards universality despite the differences of race, language, religion and political system, and towards harmony, with a distant ideal of united humanity.

PEACE PRESERVATION

There was some applause as the Soviet Foreign Commissar, M. Maxim Litvinoff, ascended the rostrum. His speech was largely explaining the Soviet ideology. He declared that the failure of the Disarmament Conference "compels us to seek more effective means to preserve peace." "Peace and security cannot be organised in the shifting sands of verbal promises and declarations," he continued. "We should establish that any State is entitled to demand from its neighbours guarantees for security, and that such a demand should not be considered an expression of mistrust."

M. Litvinoff enumerated passages from the League Covenant. He would like to see revised, for example, Articles 12 and 15 relating to legislation in certain instances of war. Article 22 on mandates, and Article 23 which omits undertakings to ensure race equality.

He emphasised that a new member of an organisation cannot be morally responsible for decision made without its concurrence.

It is understood that the Soviet, at present, does not propose to co-operate with the International Labour Office but a Russian Under-Secretary General will be appointed to the League Secretariat, together with several high officials in various departments.—Reuter.

COUNCIL WELCOME

Geneva, Sept. 19. The Council of the League had a very short public meeting to welcome M. Litvinoff as a member.

Replying to congratulations he thanked the Council, particularly Dr. Benes, the chairman, for the invitation, and expressed Russia's desire to contribute to the peace of the world.—Reuter.

FRENCH PRESS COMMENT

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894. Received, September 19, 4.30 p.m.)

Paris, Sept. 18. The leading French papers are somewhat lukewarm in commenting upon Soviet Russia's entrance into the League of Nations. The "Journal des Debats" points out rather ironically that Russia's acceptance as a League member was really dictated solely by the necessity not to repudiate the big Powers' initiative. The paper likens the new League member to a worm in an apple, adding that even Russia's most ardent advocate, Barthou, confined himself in his Geneva speech to pleading extenuating circumstances.

"Intransigent" writes apologetically that it was not the fault of Great Britain, Italy and France if they were forced to take into account the material necessities. As to moral aspects, says the paper, France is entirely in agreement with Switzerland that in religious, moral, social and political and economic spheres, Communism constitutes a "radical need for which we live."

It is significant that the semi-official "Temps" in its comment hastens to apportion to England and Italy their share in the responsibility for the eventual unhappy consequences of Soviet Russia's entry into the League.—Transocean Kuo Min.

RUSSIANS AT GENEVA

Hotel Incident

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

Geneva, Sept. 18. Now that the nerve-racking formalities connected with the admittance of Soviet Russia to the League of Nations have at last been completed, the tensions so far have relaxed, and diplomats, officials and journalists are looking on and enjoying the humorous situation. For instance, tongues were still set wagging on Tuesday night when Litvinoff, Ambassador Patemkin from Rome and Minister Boris Stein from Helsinki made their first appearance at the world renowned journalist cafe-restaurant "Bavaria" unattended by detective and police. The restaurant was full to the last seat when the trio entered.

The furnished apartments engaged by the Russia delegation are not large enough to accommodate all the forty members, and Litvinoff and Patemkin had at the last minute to take up quarters at the Hotel Angletier overlooking the Lake of Geneva. By a coincidence, the ex-Premier of the Republic of Georgia, a great number of the delegates from the Ukrainian Republic living in exile, a well-known journalist who escaped from the grip of Cheka Soviet secret police and finally the general secretary of the minorities congress known for his relief work for starving peasants of Ukraine are all staying at the same hotel. Already, a wordy passage at arms has taken place between Litvinoff and the Georgian ex-Premier. The papers declare that the remarks were not suited for publication though Litvinoff did not understand the worst of them until certain Georgian passages were translated. As neither side is prepared to change hotels, the hostilities are expected to continue.

Litvinoff will take part on Wednesday night's annual banquet for international journalists to which the President of the League of Nations Assembly and all members of the League Council are invited. Barthou, Eden and Aloisi will deliver short after dinner speeches to the world-Press.—Transocean Kuo Min.

SENATE ARMS ENQUIRY ALLEGATIONS

NANKING TAKES SERIOUS VIEW

Chinese Officials' Names To Be Disclosed

Kuling, Sept. 19.

Marshal Chiang Kai Shek and Mr. Wang Ching Wei are taking a very serious view of the alleged disclosures at the United States Senate arms enquiry that certain Chinese officials had received from the Du Pont de Nemours Corporation commissions on sales of munitions to the Chinese Government.

They have asked the Government to thoroughly investigate the matter and instruct the Chinese Minister at Washington to request Senator Nye to publish the names of the Chinese officials alleged to be involved.

A representative of the Corporation giving evidence last Friday spoke of an arrangement to facilitate arms shipments to Canton, in respect of which, however, nothing was done.—Reuter.

He added that the Corporation had paid "commissions" to high Chinese officials in this sale, but pointed out that this was not unusual and not in accord with the Corporation's policy.

It was also stated that following protests from foreign governments, a censorship had been imposed on some phases of the enquiry. The names of Chinese officials who had accepted commissions were being withheld from the official record on the ground that publication might have political repercussions abroad.

Senator Nye, chairman of the Enquiry Committee, declared later that there was no inclination and no request to soft-pedal anything. They were going right ahead and nobody had suggested they had gone too far.

INCIDENT IN MADRID

Van Loaded With Explosives

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

Madrid, Sept. 19. Grave disquietude has been caused by an incident on Wednesday morning revealing new revolutionary plans in the Marxist camp. When the police patrol was going round the city they came across a large "suspicious" looking delivery van and a motor van standing near a University.

As the police approached, a private auto drove up at top speed discharging several shots at the police, and then escaping. A search through the delivery van revealed rifles, bombs and ammunition. A student and chauffeur found nearby were arrested. Part of the cargo including machine guns and hand grenades were already unloaded. Meanwhile in the Marxist "house of people" considerable quantities of arms and ammunition were found and confiscated.—Transocean Kuo Min.

ECONOMIC ISOLATION NOT DESIRED

Germany's Demands On Other Governments

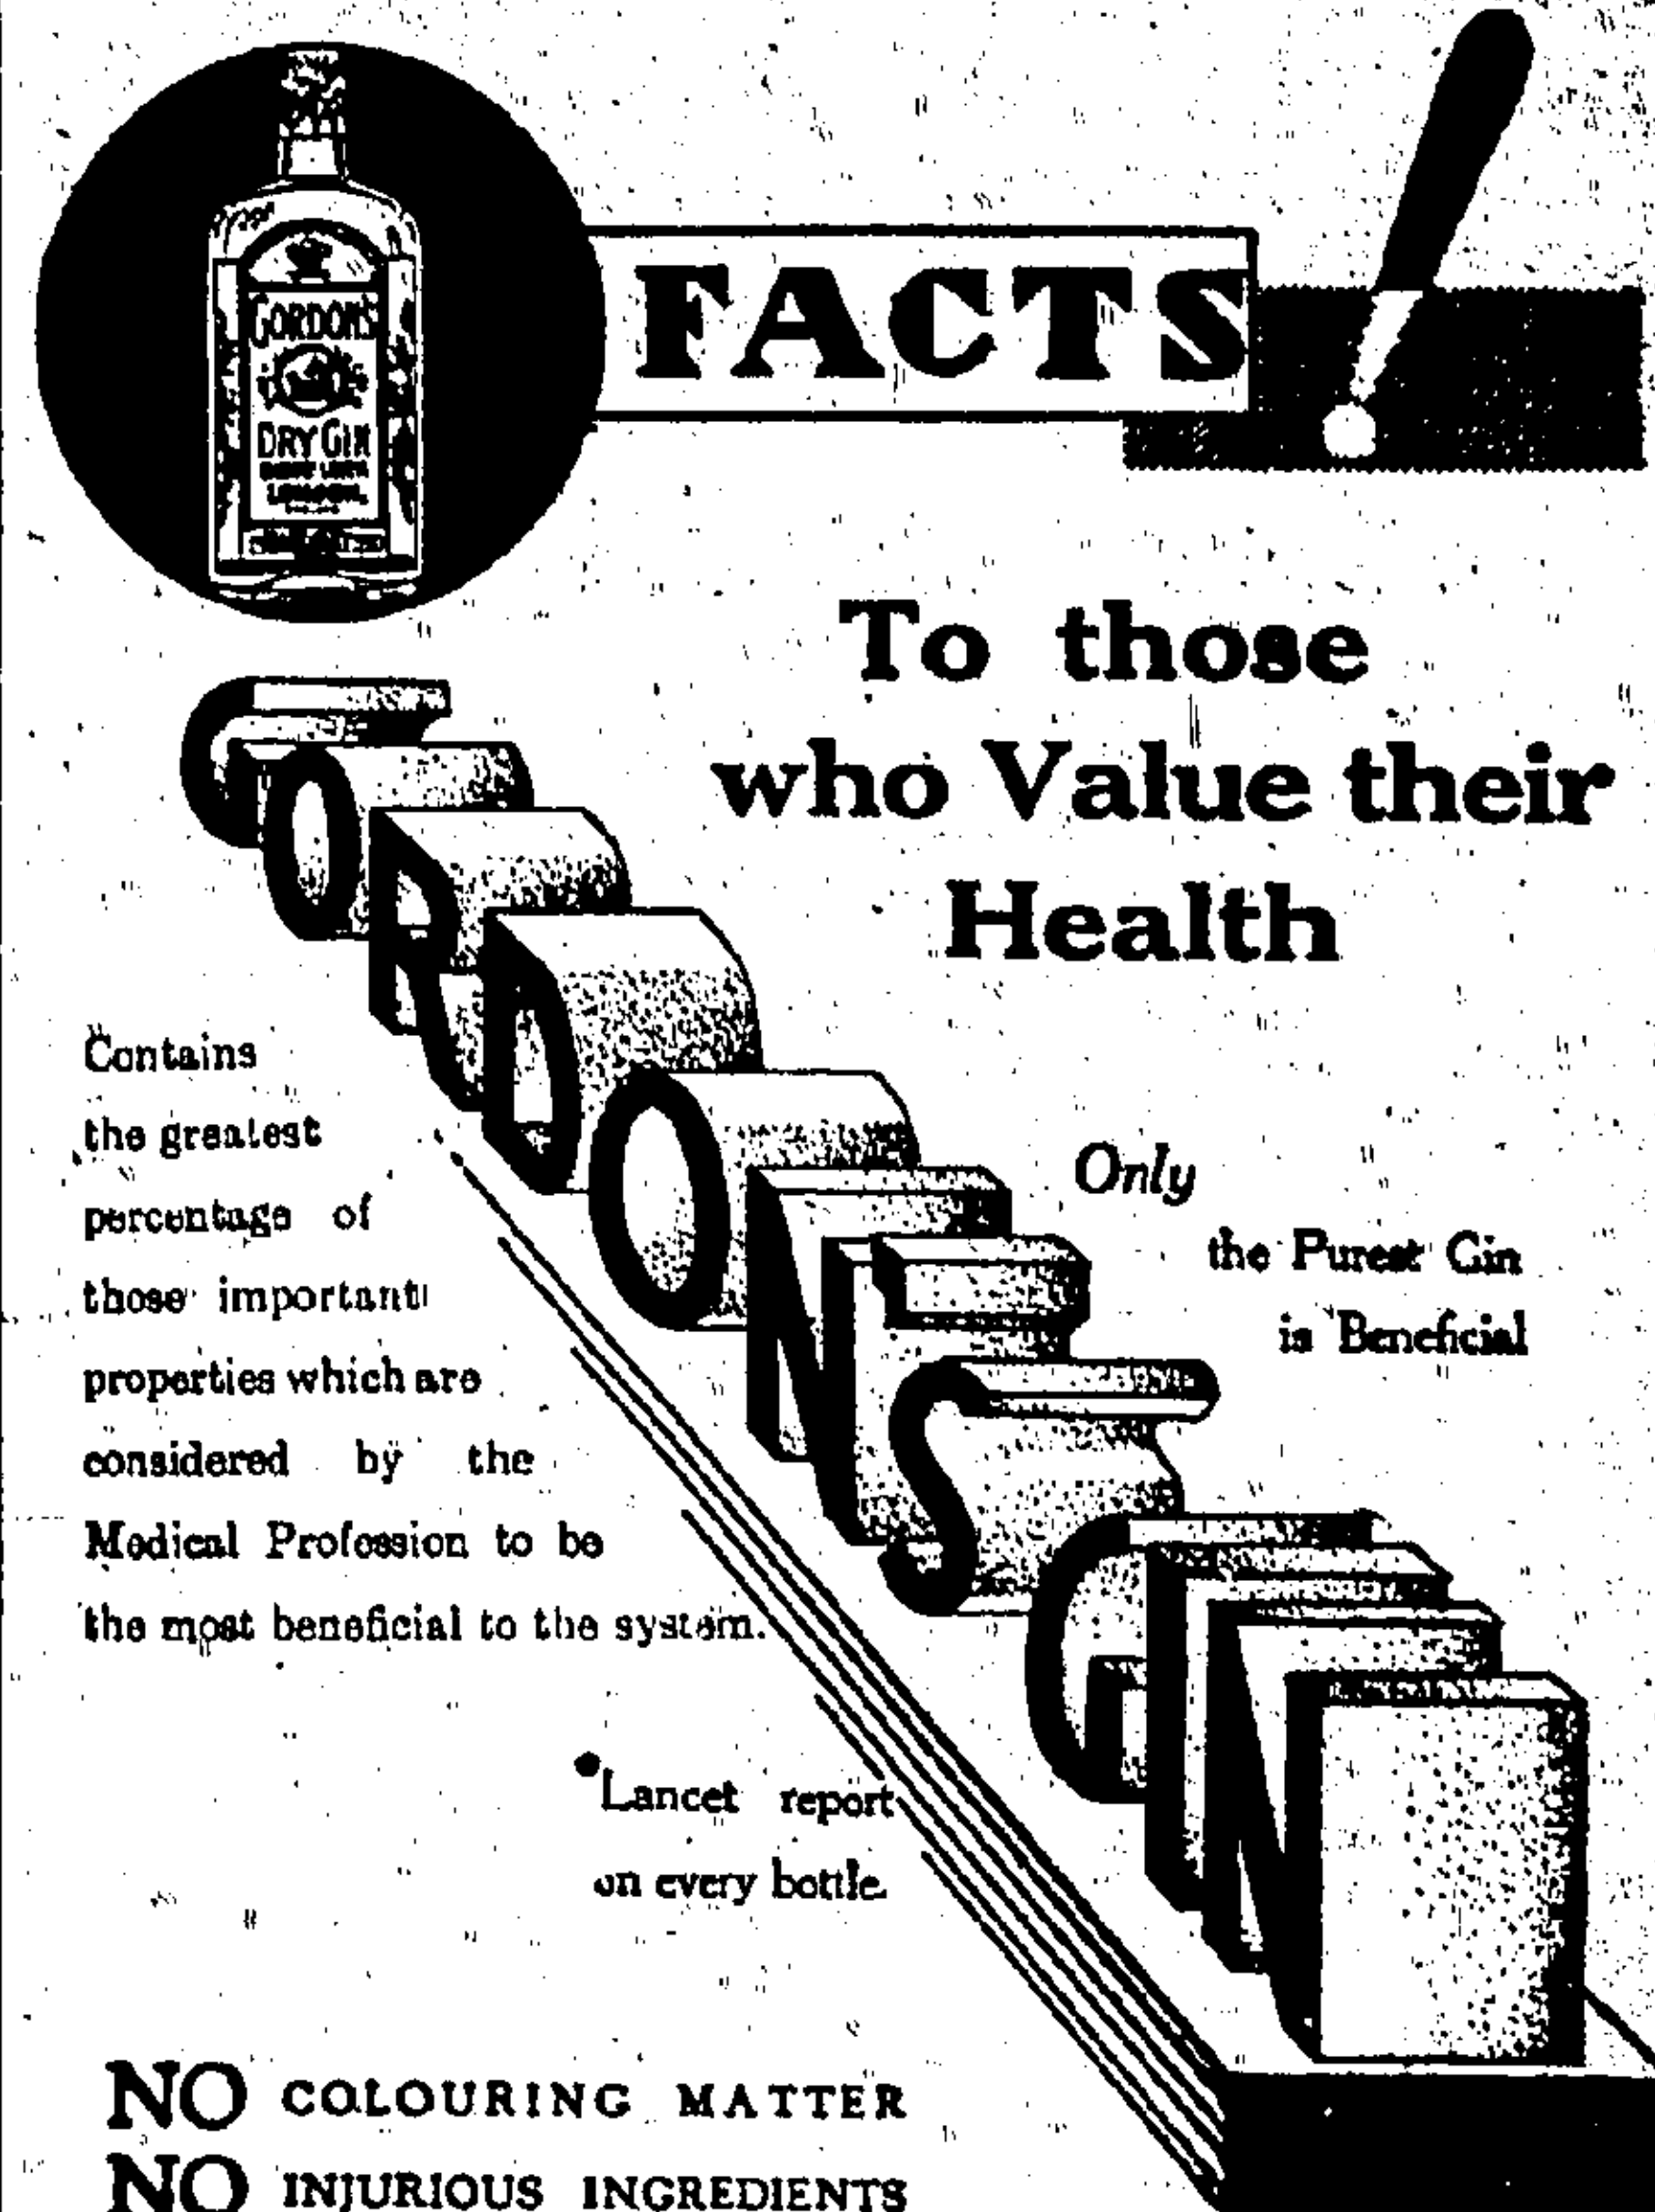

Berlin, Sept. 19.

A fresh plea to the world to understand the New Germany was uttered by Baron von Neurath, addressing the International Road Conference.

He declared that Germany was concentrating all efforts on home revival and consequently the "pursuit of all imperialistic aims must be given up."

He made positive demands to other governments, firstly to complete equality in the sphere of armaments, and secondly a satisfactory settlement of the Saar, which must have a free and honest plebiscite, in which the Government would do its utmost to assist but expect all other parties to co-operate in the same spirit. Germany did not desire economic isolation, although the Government was trying to make the economic system more independent of foreign imports. They are aware of Germany's central position and demanded commercial relations with neighbouring countries based on mutual understanding.—Reuter.

TRAINING GALLOPS

PARADE OF AUSTRALIAN
SPRINTERS

Ribble's Convincing Trial

(BY "MORNING DEW")

The feature of yesterday's gallops at the course was the number of sprints which Australian candidates were put through.

Able Amazon, one of the favourites for the "A" Class sprint covered six furlongs in 1.30.4 finishing easily in 28 seconds. Bobbiak Star was a little faster taking 1.27.1 for the trip, with the last quarter in 27.3. High Finance was even faster still taking 1.26.4 for the six furlongs and finishing in 27.3. Just That took much longer over the first half mile, but finished in every way impressively.

The "B" Class Australians were also out to do good "times" and Glorious Star covered six furlongs in 1.30.3, taking 28.3 for the last quarter. Australian Boy took 1.29 for the same journey, with the last quarter at 28. Lucy Glitters took 1.28.2 and also finished in 28.

Ribble, one of the strongest challengers to Electric Star on Saturday was sent over a mile and a quarter and he put in a very fine gallop, taking 2.50 for the journey, the last half mile being in 1.02 and the last quarter in 30. The more I see of this pony, the more I like him.

SECOND VICTORY FOR ENDEAVOURRecord Established For The Triangular Course

Winning the third race in the America's Cup series, to record his second consecutive victory, it looks as if Mr. Tom Sopwith will win four consecutive races as predicted by experts. The Endeavour established a record for the triangular course, the amateur crew co-operating efficiently with the masterly seamanship of the owner.

The Endeavour, although handicapped on the homeward journey by a split Genoa jib, crossed the finishing mark with a margin of 45 seconds, the Rainbow then appearing to gain very strongly on the challenger.

Newport, R.I., Sept. 18.

The Endeavour turned the second mark at 1.53 p.m., half a length in front of the Rainbow, who turned at 1.57 p.m.

Two miles from the second mark the Endeavour led by fully 300 yards, but the Rainbow remained on the port tack, hoping to get the windward berth should close work be necessary at the buoy.

It was then thought that the boat rounding the second mark first would be the certain winner, barring accidents.

Mr. Sopwith at this time was sailing magnificently. Both yachts set their Genoa jibs immediately after the turn.

RECORD BROKEN

The Endeavour's time on the windward leg was 1 hour 17 minutes 1 second, and bettered the Cup record established by Reliance in 1903 by 2 minutes 57 seconds.

The Endeavour broke the record for the triangular course set by Enterprise in 1930, the official times being:—Endeavour 2 hours 50 minutes 40 seconds. Rainbow 2 hours 51 minutes 25 seconds.

The Endeavour crossed the line at 3.50 p.m. while the Rainbow crossed 51 seconds later.

A mile from the finish the Endeavour was 300 yards ahead, and going strong under her mainsail and balloon jib, although Vanderbilt was gaining slightly.

President Roosevelt was an interested spectator throughout. The official times now make Endeavour's winning margin 45 seconds.

DEFENDER OUTSAILED

The Endeavour outsailed the defender the entire way, while her crew worked the sails much snappier than in the earlier races. The only time she appeared in danger was after the first turn, when Vanderbilt almost pulled off the lead, only to be out-maneuvred.

It looks certain now that Endeavour will win the series, the only question is will it be by four races straight.

The official times for the race were definitely fixed some time after the event, and reveal that the Endeavour covered the course in 3 hours 9 minutes 1 second, as against the Rainbow's 3 hours 9 minutes 52 seconds.

The record established by the Enterprise in 1930 was therefore easily beaten, the Enterprise's figures being 3 hours, 10 minutes 3 seconds.

The third race is being sailed to-morrow (Wednesday) the course being windward and leeward.

SOPWITH ELATED

Newport, Sept. 18.

Mr. T. O. M. Sopwith, owner and navigator of the British America's Cup challenger, interviewed after the race to-day, was elated but modest.

He praised his craft, saying he was almost pleased they had torn the big Genoa jib at the start, since it showed that the Endeavour could win even though lame.

The jib split above the clew when it caught in a hank. "We were unable to set it again on the last leg because of the split," said Mr. Sopwith. "We were forced to set a light balloon jib on the way home. We were unable to sheet it in as close as we wished and that was the chief reason how the Rainbow closed in on the Endeavour on the final leg."

NOT DISCOURAGED

Mr. Harold S. Vanderbilt said he was not discouraged by his defeat. He knew the Endeavour was very fast, he said.

The New York Yacht Club has granted permission for the removal of a portion of the Endeavour's cabin fittings in order to bring them down to the weight of the Rainbow's.

Mr. Sopwith says that only a small amount will be removed. "We will still carry more than the Rainbow," he said, but he did not intend to take out any more anyway.

The explanation of this decision lies in the fact that before the races experts expressed the opinion that the Rainbow's cabin fittings did not accord with the rules of the contest. Briefly, in non-expert language, the Endeavour's cabin fittings are far more comfortable than the Rainbow's, but it appears that the rules have been differently interpreted.—Reuter.

STRONGHOLD OF THE REDSNanking Troops To Attack

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Sept. 18.

After a long silence, General Chiang Kai-shek, liaison officer for the Nanking Military Commission in Canton, told newspapermen to-day that the government forces in Nanking are making another attempt to attack Changting, the Communist stronghold in Western Fukien.

The General repeated the statement that Changting will be taken before long, because some progress has been made by his nephew, General Chiang Ting-wen, officer commanding the Nanking forces in Fukien. Because he is still serving as liaison officer for Nanking, General Chiang Kai-shek has to remain in Canton.

The Communists in Southern Hunan under Hsiao Keh and Li Chung Po have fled to Eastern Kwelchow. Their strength is about 12,000 with 8,000 rifles. Their armaments have increased by disarming the provincial troops and county guards in Southern Hunan. These Red troops were former men under Li Ming Shui, who either died long ago or has no connection with the present activities.

Cantonese troops of the Third Independent Division are returning from Southern Hunan to Ping-shih and Lokchang in Northern Kwangtung, since Southern Hunan is now peaceful.

TEN THOUSAND
STRONGRed Forces In Hunan

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Sept. 19.

That the Red forces under "Generals" Hsiao Keh and Li Chung Pao, who harassed Southern Hunan during the early part of the month, had not entered Kwangtung at all is the statement made to press representatives to-day by Lieut.-General Li Han-yun, commanding officer of the Third Independent Division of the First Group Army.

These two Red leaders have a combined force of about 5,000 men who were stationed at first in Western Kiangsi, General Li said, but they eventually decided to break through the blockade and succeeded in dashing out of the cordon and found their way to Southern Hunan.

"Their total strength is now over 10,000," General Li added. "In their march westward, the Communists have recruited many bandits and destitute people in Southern Hunan. The Communists now have about 7,000 rifles, and the bandits are also acting as their guides."

"The enemy did not stop at the towns but were bent on their march westward. They looted foodstuffs on the way. There were some anxious moments when the Reds passed through very near to Kwangtung, but reinforcements were rushed to the borders which have, however, remained undisturbed."

General Li added that his division is sent back from I-Chang in Southern Hunan to Loichang and Shaokwan in Northern Kwangtung, as there are no more Communists on the Hunan-Kwangtung frontier.

Provincial forces from Hunan and Kwangsi are pursuing the Communists who are now in Western Hunan near the Kwangsi and Kwelchow borders, the general said. He believed that the government forces have the situation well in hand, because they greatly outnumber the Reds and are far better armed.

IN TENGHSIEN

Conservatism Slow
To Change

Tenghsien, Sept. 5.

Tenghsien being in the belt of country influenced by Confucius and Mencius is still conservative and stands for old traditions, so for this reason is not easily influenced by new ideas or customs. Bobbed hair and the unbound foot for women are still discountenanced except by the more progressive few.

Possibly for this reason the New Life Movement is just reaching this part of China. China can out-ride the West in parades and demonstrations so the New Life programme as exhibited to-day has attracted thousands; bands of soldiers; the scouts with their own flag and band and schools, from primary to high school, both girls and young men. This demonstration and the speeches will be followed by two days of theatricals, which seems necessary to induce a crowd to attend.

Picture Lessons

In the last year the soldiers have prepared for themselves a plot for military manoeuvres, and this being outside the city, and spacious, most public gatherings meet there when numbers are expected. The city gates are decorated with huge paintings, demonstrating with the use of pictures the evil effects of opium in particular, but also wine and cigarette. Some of these are truly oriental and most realistic in their details. We rejoice in this movement but we are reminded of John Erskine's saying that to develop culture or morals one must not neglect the spiritual man.

The old time teacher and scholar of China has the bowed back as a kind of "trade mark" and is still difficult to persuade students to sit erect, and hold their chins up. Now that their commander-in-chief requests it, the task is easier.

AIR DISPLAY
IN CANTONDrive To Be Made
For Funds

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Sept. 19.

Military aeroplanes roared through the skies this morning in preparation for the great air demonstration on September 20 in honour of the late General Yang Sen Yin, pioneer of Chinese military aviation.

The air pageant to-morrow promises to be the most spectacular and elaborate in the history of military aviation in Canton. The second huge aerodrome below White Cloud Mountain will be formally open and the public are to be welcomed to inspect the different planes assembled there.

An energetic drive has been launched in raising funds for the aerial defence of Canton. An air defence parade will take place on September 20, although it is to be participated mostly by students and members of the Ten-Men League, a group of writers who are preparing propaganda for a bigger and better air corps.

Colonel Tan, Professor of Aviation at the flying school, said that the bombing plane is in a position to destroy its objective with little fear from pursuit planes or anti-aircraft guns. To escape the anti-aircraft guns, the bomber has to climb to over 10,000 feet, because anti-aircraft guns can shoot up to 9,000 feet. Recent manoeuvres in many countries have shown that a bomber can register a direct hit from an altitude of 20,000 feet.

GROWTH OF RED
ORGANIZATIONSHonan Government
Disturbed

Kaileng, Sept. 9.

Various secret organizations, such as the Red Spear Society, Temple Society, Long Fairy Society, Kwang Kwang Tan Hui or Poor Peoples Society, Wu Chi Tao or Without Beginning Society, and An Ching Hui or Peaceful Society, have recently made their appearance in Western and Northern Honan. They are said to have them, and are to create disturbances in the province. The Honan Provincial Government has instructed the public safety bureau, and the magistrates in the province, to arrest their leaders and disband the societies. It is also rumoured here that the bandit organs, and the above-mentioned secret societies, are supported by Gen. Shih Yu-sun, formerly a subordinate under Marshall Feng Yu-hsiang, and now associated with Manchoukuo, who is staying in Dairen.

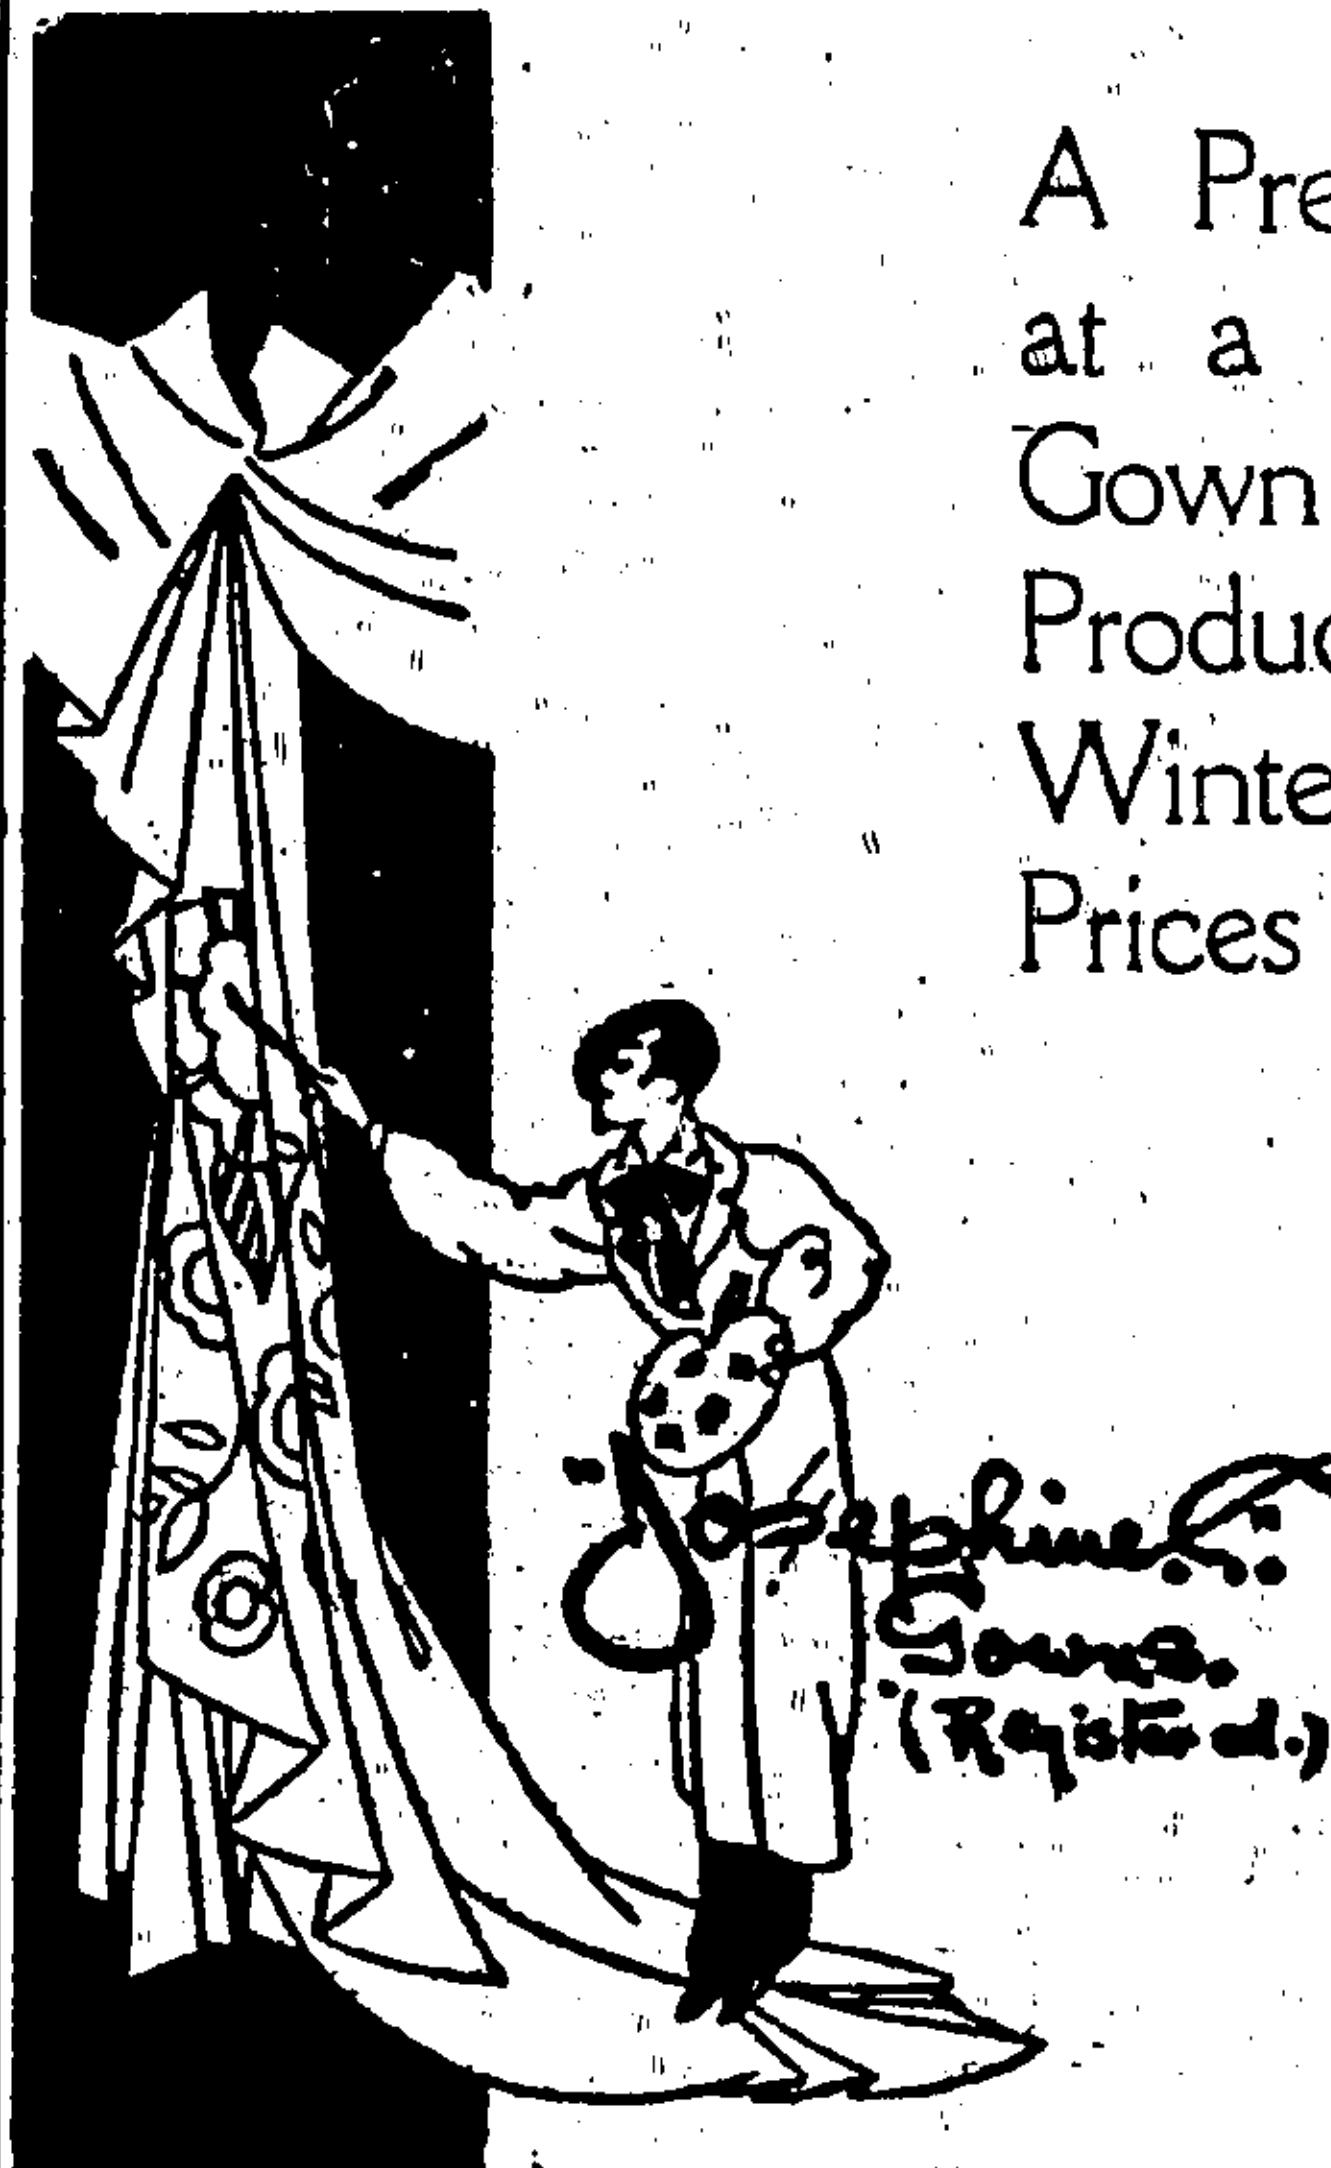

At the end of last week, it was rumoured that the Finance Minister of the province, Mr. Li Wen-hao, had been arrested by the local political authorities, acting on the instructions of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, and that the head of the Provincial Industrial Bank, Mr. Li Han-chen, had run away, both been alleged to have indulged in malpractices, with the result that all shops in the city suddenly refused to accept the bank's notes. Hundreds of people ran to the bank to change their paper notes. The bank has branch offices in each hien in the province, so the same occurred in Sinyang, Shanchow, Chengchow, and several other hsiens.

It is peaceful now. Mr. Li Wen-hao is carrying on his official business in the office as usual, and Mr. Li Han-chen, head of the bank, who went to Tientsin, has returned to the city. Two rumour-mongers were arrested by the local public safety bureau.

According to a higher official of the reconstruction bureau of the province, since 1927, Kaileng people have not suffered much from drought, storms, because many trees have been planted, during the last fifteen years, within twenty li around the city.

LATE NIGHT CABLES

London Forecast
Dull and lifeless conditions are again expected in Wall Street, owing to the strike situation, which is likely to assume even more serious proportions.

Wheat prices are expected to open weak in sympathy with the Argentine market.

Rubber prices are expected to open a little lower.

Cotton, lower prices are expected, pending a clarification of rumours regarding the suspension of the Bankhead Bill and also owing to the easiness of the Liverpool market and the strike deadlock. The market is technically weaker.

A.O.F.C. New York Cables:

Stocks—Testing of Dow Jones Jones October Industrial Averages believe incomplete. Higher opening on very light volume.

Cotton—Hedge and scattered selling being absorbed by trade. Tong however fairly steady.

NEW SKIPPER OF "EMPRESS"

Captain Latta Hands
Over

Singapore, Sept. 13.
When the Empress of Britain pays her annual visit to Singapore early in the new year she will be under the charge of a new commander. Captain R. G. Latta, who for three years has commanded the vessel handed her over to his successor, Captain Ronald Stuart, v.c., and expressed to him his heartiest wishes.

Captain Latta, asked whether he regretted leaving the sea, remarked that he never regretted the inevitable. "I always understood that the time would come for me
to retire, and now it has arrived,
I am very glad to give way to a younger man."

Captain Latta has had three strenuous years since he took over command of the Empress of Britain, but he confessed that his back was not broken and that he would not mind doing another three years in the fine ship. In those three years he had covered 300,000 miles.

A Fortunate Seaman
Congratulated on the fact that he has never lost a ship or a man, he observed: "Well, I must be one of God's fortunate seamen; never ground, never in trouble, and never lost a man, even in the war."
He spoke of one narrow escape, however, when an enemy torpedo passed under the stern of his ship.
"We just managed to dodge that one," he said.

Discussing the value of scientific appliances to the mariner, Captain Latta said he still relied upon his nose to warn him of the nearness of ice. "To-day we feel so safe that we do not care much whether we can see the sun, moon or stars," he observed. "Marconi has worked wonders for us, and the greatest aid is the direction-finder, which is invaluable in the St. Lawrence trade."

"But as to presence of ice, I still rely upon my nose to tell me when it is about. If you will pay attention to what the weather is telling you, your nose will do the rest."

Captain Latta recalled that the Prince of Wales was his most famous passenger, and added, curiously enough, in the very month that the Prince of Wales was born. I began my sea life."

Filling the Bill

"But you advertised a bed sitting room."
"Certainly. This is it?"
"Well, I see the bed, but where's the sitting-room?"
"Oh the bed."

SHIPPING NOTES

Oriental Travel Increase

Trans-Pacific passenger carriers have been enjoying capacity loads despite strikes or other set-backs.
According to Edward G. White, general passenger agent for the N. Y. K. line at San Francisco, the figures indicate that all lines have had notable increases in traffic in all but steerage and third class business. The loss in the third class movement, which was caused by the Philippine Independence act, has been more than offset by the increase in revenue from the first and second classes.

New Gdynia Line

A new line between Gdynia and British India with a monthly service is stated by the Gazette Handbook of Warsaw to have been established by the Oslo firm of Wilhelm Wilhelmsen and the Swedish East Asiatic Co. of Gothenburg.
The vessels will call at Karachi,
Bombay, Madras, Calcutta and Rangoon and in the event of sufficient cargo being offered the ships will also call at other Indian ports.
The starting of the new line is ascribed to the activity in trade with British India.

NEW LINER LAUNCHED

Messrs. Workman Clark (1928)
Ltd., Belfast, launched from their North Yard recently the motor liner Dorset, the second of two vessels built to the order of the Federal Steam Navigation Co. Ltd.
for their New Zealand and Australian service.

The Dorset, a twin-screw vessel of the shelter-deck type has an overall length of 513 ft. and a deadweight of over 13,500 tons.
The main propelling machinery consists of two sets of Sulzer two-stroke cycle solid injection diesel engines.

Accommodation is provided amid-ship in two large deck houses for the officers and crew, while aft, for 40 cadets, large rooms, cabins,
schoolroom, dining saloon, etc.,
have been arranged. She is expected to be ready for service in October.

A Complete Answer

"My friend," asked the missionary, "are you travelling the straight and narrow path?"
In silence the man handed over his card, which read: "S'gnor Ballance's Tightrope Walker."

PETRIES ON NEW ADVENTURE

Search For Long-Lost
Civilisation

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 5.
Sir Flinders Petrie, the most famous archaeologist in the world, will this week say good-bye to Britain.
He will not come back, in his own phrase, "for many summers." His house is empty, and his professorship at London University has been handed over to another.

At 81 this amazing man with the snow-white hair and beard and the twinkling, restless, ever-active eyes is going—with Lady Petrie—to Northern Syria and adventure. There he will start one of the most romantic quests of his life—the search for a vanished civilisation that flourished 5000 years ago.

More than 50 years ago he was an experienced explorer, but as he talked to a reporter yesterday his eyes shone with the joy of one setting out on his first mission.

"I am going to work in Syria this year," said Sir Flinders.
"The British School of Egyptian Archaeology has decided not to continue the work at Gaza for the present, but to seek an answer for questions raised in that site. I have been in correspondence with the French authorities about working in Syria, and find the way is open."

Unknown Ground

"Quite independently of that, I feel this was an opportunity to reach, if possible the seat of that great civilisation of Northern Syria, traces of which we have been finding so largely in the remains at Gaza."

"Every year quantities of pottery and jewellery quite foreign to Palestine have been unearthed there, and these have come down certainly from the north."

"In North Syria lies the civilisation which hitherto has not been tapped at all. It is practically unknown ground, to begin with we shall have a very small staff and the first period will be devoted simply to exploration."

Not Old Trough

"The French have a magnificent site which is the most valuable and most important—but 1000 years later than the period we want. This is no deroga-tion of their work there. We are simply anxious to get at an earlier civilisation, indications of which have not been so far found anywhere but at Gaza."

"That is our goal, and we are leaving at once in search of it."
"I don't know how many summers it will be before I come back," he said.
"I have finished my work at University College, and I have necessarily nothing more to do there. Now I have handed over everything to my successor and said good-bye. My work lies elsewhere."

Simple

"If you had the finest library in the world and fire broke out," asks a librarian, "which twelve books would you save?" The twelve nearest the door.
